SUN WORSHIP — A lone duck relaxes in the sun at the Marin Civic Center lagoon today as wisps of cloud creep across the sky, signaling an end to yesterday's summerlike weather. The duck and the lagoon, as well as Marin parks and beaches, had plenty of company during the weekend, as crowds of people took to the outdoors to enjoy the sunny days.

Informant On Stand Against 7

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)— Boyd F. Douglas testified today that when FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover disclosed an alleged plot to kidnap a White House aide and destroy Washington heating systems a Harrisburg seven defendant became "highly suspicious that I was the leak."

Douglas, 31, an FBI informant and chief witness for the prosecution in the kidnap-bombing conspiracy trial, said Sister Elizabeth McAlister felt that he was the only member of an "inner circle" that could have divulged information of the alleged plot.

Sister Elizabeth, the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan and five other antiwar activists are charged with conspiring to kidnap presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger, blow up federal heating systems and vandalize draft boards in order to dramatize opposition to U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The alleged conspirators were indicted after Hoover, testifying before a congressional committee in November 1970, told of such a plot by "an anarchist group."

Douglas testified that at a meeting in New York with Sister Elizabeth "in the first part of 1971" the nun appeared "highly suspicious that I was the leak. She told me she had observed an agent watching her at Danbury, (Conn.)."

Federal Judge R. Dixon Hernan interrupted: "You were the only one who knew she was going to Danbury?" Douglas said yes, and added:6

"Sister Elizabeth said she heard a phone conversation played back to her after I hung up—she was quite paranoid in her reference to me."

Douglas did not explain the nature of the phone conversation, but indicated the playback led Sister Elizabeth to believe the line had been tapped.

The witness said that at the New York meeting, Sister Elizabeth told him "as far as the Kissinger kidnap" was concerned, "only the inner circle knew that, and she could name the number on her hands ... she felt none of the other people would have given the information but me."

"What did you say to all that?" Herman asked.

Douglas replied: "I said, 'I'm sorry you feel that way and I guess we will soon find out.'"

The courtroom erupted with laughter.

"Did you deny you were the leak?" the judge asked. "Yes, I told her she was wrong."

Dressed in a gray suit, with a pink shirt and purple striped tie, the former convict testified calmly about a letter he wrote on Oct. 3, 1970, requesting "additional money" from the FBI.

"How much was it?" asked prosecutor William S. Lynch.

"Approximately $50,000," Douglas replied.

"Did you ask for a concrete answer, and get a concrete answer?" Lynch asked.

"Yes."

"What was it?"

"Absolutely no," Douglas replied.

Douglas said he made the request in writing shortly after he had received $1,500 from the FBI "for information received on the Rochester incident." The offices of the Selective Service Board, the U.S. attorney, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation were vandalized on Sept. 6, 1970 in Rochester, N.Y.

The request for the $50,000,

ITT Case Figure Behavior Irrational, Says Physician

A HIGH-UP THRILL

Brookners W. Brady Jr., who admits to feeling "a little thrill" each time he climbs high above the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, demonstrates that it's not all that hard to scale the main cable. This view, shot with a telephoto lens by Independent-Journal photographer Alfred M. Arn, makes the cable look much steeper than it actually is. Brady is fastened to one of the two smaller cables — called safety hand lines — by means of a safety snap and a rope. (See story, photos, page 26)

Doctor Of Mrs. Beard Testifies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The personal physician of Mrs. Dita D. Beard, a key figure in the controversy about the administration's settlement of an antitrust case against International Telephone & Telegraph (ITT), testified today she has suffered from "distorted and irrational" onal" behavior for four years.

Dr. Victor Liszka, who has been treating Mrs. Beard — an ITT lobbyist —for a heart condition, told the Senate Judiciary committee she may have to be hospitalized in Denver for two more weeks.

Sen. James O. Eastland, DMiss., the chairman, raised the possibility of a bedside visit by the committee to take her testimony while specialists monitor her heartbeat.

Liszka testified that Mrs. Beard, an ITT lobbyist, has been in "extremely poor" health for several years and for four years her "thought processes have not been well coordinated." He said the woman's coronary condition could be responsible because it cuts off flow of blood to the brain.

Mrs. Beard purportedly wrote ITT executives last year that the Justice Department was moving toward a favorable settlement of its antitrust action as a result of a $400,000 contribution by the huge firm's Sheraton Hotels subsidiary to the 1972 Republican National Convention.

Liszka also said that Mrs. Beard did not mean to imply in her memo that there was any connection between the settlement and the contribution to the Republicans. Liszka said he was present last month at the time Mrs. Beard discussed the memo with Brit Hume, an investigative reporter for columnist Jack Anderson.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., asked if at that meeting Mrs. Beard was disturbed.

"I have never seen her mentally in a worse condition," the doctor said. Kennedy asked what she had to say about writing the memo, which clearly indicated, when portions were published by Anderson, that there was a connection between the settlement and the offer to the GOP.

"She said she had a mental block about writing the memo," Liszka said. "But she made it clear she never wanted to imply or suggest there was any connection between San Diego and the (settlement)."

Mrs. Beard had been missing since columnist Jack Anderson made disclosure of her memo. FBI agents, trying to find her to serve a committee subpoena, caught up with her during the weekend at the Rocky Mountain Osteopathic Hospital in Denver.

Liszka, who said he had talked to the Justice Department before his testimony today, said Mrs. Beard had told him last May that she got a "dressing down" from John N. Mitchell, then the attorney general, about her lobbying in the ITT antitrust matter.

Liszka said Mrs. Beard called him, apparently very upset,

A Beautiful Day For Kites, Boats

A hazy fog moved in on the Marin coast today ending yesterday's sparkling summer preview.

The clear skies and warm temperatures brought out summer-like crowds, flocking to Marin parks and beaches.

Kites filled the sky at Fort Cronkhite and other beaches and San Francisco Bay was dotted with sailboats.

"It was a beautiful day and everyone was out," the California Highway Patrol reported.

Northbound traffic on the Golden Gate Bridge was backed up before noon with San Franciscans heading to and through Marin.

About 6,000 persons headed for Stinson Beach yesterday, state park rangers said, and about 5,000 persons took advantage of beaches at Point Reyes National Seashore during the weekend.

The big crowd was yesterday, national seashore officials said.

"A little traffic control" was needed at Dolan's corners in Tamalpais Valley, the highway patrol said, and southbound traffic on Highway 101 backed up in Novato about 5:30 p.m. yesterday.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the warm weather was an extension of a weather pattern usually restricted to northwestern Mexico and California's Imperial Valley.

The pattern reached just north of the San Francisco Bay area during the weekend and today, but was expected to shift eastward tomorrow, allowing cooler ocean air to move in on Marin and the rest of the Northern California coast.

The temperatures reached 82 degrees in Novato yesterday. Other high temperatures reported for yesterday were: 80 in Petaluma; 79 in San Anselmo; 76 in Fairfax; 75 in Ross; 80 in Sausalito; 70 in Tamalpais Valley; 74 in Belvedere, and 78 in San Rafael.

5,000 Monthly To Be Drafted

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Monday draft calls in April, May and June would average 5,000 per month and that the draft for the entire year would be 50,000 or less.

Nearly 100,000 men were drafted in 1971.

Spain Ready For Big Wedding

MADRID (UPI)—Royalty and special dignitaries from all over the world began arriving Monday to attend Spain's biggest social event in two decades — the wedding of Generalassimo Francisco Franco's granddaughter to a member of Spain's royal family.

Miss Maria del Carmen Martinez-Bordiu Franco, 21, is the eldest of Franco's five grandchildren. Her bridegroom, Prince Alfonso de Bourbon, 36, is a first cousin to Franco's designated successor and future king of Spain.

The wedding Wednesday will be held in the chapel of Franco's El Prado palace residence on the northern outskirts of Madrid.

Civic Center Liquor Hearing On

An appeal hearing on the State Alcoholic Beverage Control's refusal to grant a beer and wine license to operators of the Civic Center cafeteria resumed today after more than a month's delay.

The hearing was continued in January after a day-long session when it became clear the number of witnesses to be heard exceeded the time allotted.

First witness to appear today before state hearing officer Paul A. Winton was Edmar H. Hicks, a supervisgr in the conty clerk's office.

She said she opposed the license because "many of the people we deal with are people in trouble" and don't need ready access to liquor.

Mrs. Hicks, who said she doesn't drink herself, also noted that many of those dining at the cafeteria are jurors, witnesses and juveniles.

According to San Rafael attorney Gil Madeiros, representing Civic Center Caterers in its appeal, the hearing will probably run through tomorrow since he has not introduced his witnesses yet.

Cypriot Youths, Police Scuffle

ATHENS (UPI)—A group of 200 Cypriot youths studying at Greek universities demonstrated outside the Cypriot Embassy in Athens today to demand the resignation of Archbishop Makarios as president of Cyprus.

The students scuffled with police who arrested seven of them but released them later.

San Rafael Man 5th To Seek Baar's Fourth District Seat

Michael R. Peevey of San Rafael today declared his candidacy for Marin County supervisor in the Fourth District.

The incumbent, Louis H. Baar, previously announced he will not seek a second four-year term.

The announcement by Peevey, who ran unsuccessfully in 1970 against Peter H. Behr of Tiburon for the state Senate, came only four days before the close of filing for the June 6 primary election.

Attorney Gary T. Giacomini of Woodacre is the only candidate to file to date in the district, but three others have announced their candidacy: laboratory technician Patricia T. Maginnis of San Rafael; rancher and agricultural consultant Charles E. Hancock of Stinson Beach, and Kelly Fister of Point Reyes Station, operator of a center to aid youths in the area.

Peevery, 34, is a research director of the California Labor Federation in San Francisco. He also is a lobbyist for the federation in Sacramento.

He previously worked as a Labor Department economist in Washington and coordinator of community programs at the University of California's Institute of Industrial Relations, Berkeley.

Peevey last year was named

MICHAEL R. PEEVEY
Supervisorial candidate

by the White House to the National Commission on State Workmen's Compensation Laws, studying whether to federalize the 50 separate state workmen's compensation systems. He was nominated as one of the two labor representatives on the commission by George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

He serves on the economic development committee of the county's city-county planning council, is vice chairman of the Marin Council of Civic Affairs, and is a member of the Sierra Club, Save San Francisco Bay Association, California Tomorrow, Marin Conservation League, Common Cause, and the Commonwealth Club of California.

Peevey also is a director of the Association of California Consumers and founded the Marin Transportation Action Committee, which helped push the Golden Gate Bridge District into the transit business.

Peevey, in a statement declaring his candidacy, said he was "a conservationist deeply concerned about land-use policies and pollution, but I am equally concerned about the 'moral pollution' which springs from the neglect of the needs of the elderly, in the unequal employment opportunities facing women, and the pleas of homeowners for economy in government."

He promised, if elected, "to preserve and enhance the environmental amenities that make Marin a truly unique place to live," but also said he would help hold down rising costs of government.

He and his wife, Lauretta, and their children, Darcie, 9, and Maria, 4, live at 7 Espalda Court.

Muskie Is Running Scared In N.H.

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

On the eve of the first presidential popularity referendum of 1972, no embarrassment like that visited on his predecessor in 1968 appeared today to be in store for President Nixon in New Hampshire.

However, the Democratic frontrunner, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine was running scared and making an intensive closing rush. Muskie appeared in no danger of a close call, but he wanted to make his predicted victory convincing.

The most recent public opinion poll by the Boston Globe put Nixon far ahead of GOP challengers John N. Ashbrook and Paul N. McCloskey, two congressmen opposing him for opposite idealogical reasons (Ashrbook is a conservative, McCloskey a Liberal).

But a new Globe poll indicated Muskie's majority among those questioned had dropped below 50 per cent. While Muskie has discounted percentages, his forces want to see him pile up a majority of votes to give him more impetus for other, bigger primaries ahead —especially in Florida next week.

In January, the Globe's first poll gave Muskie a percentage lead of 65 to 18 over his closest adversary in New Hampshire, Sen. George S. McGovern. The latest survey narrowed the gap to 42-26.

Nixon generally has registered between 65 and 70 per cent in canvasses of GOP voters.

Although New Hampshire has only a small fraction of the nation's voters, the results of its traditional first primary often have telling effects on campaigns. President Lyndon B. Johnson was given a majority in the 1968 Democratic primary but Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy came so close this was generally regarded as one of the main reasons Johnson decided at the end of March that year not to seek reelection. Another Globe poll in New Hampshire, released today, matched Nixon against Democratic candidates. With Nixon, Muskie and George C. Wallace mentioned, Nixon drew 49 per cent, Muskie 38 and Wallace 4 per cent, 9 per cent undecided. Matched against McGovern and Wallace, Nixon got a favorable response from over 50 per cent.

Other political developments:

—A poll conducted by the Providence Journal gave Muskie alsmost 50 per cent when matched against Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, an announced noncandidate, and others running in the Rhode Island May 23 primary.

—Sam Yorty, Los Angeles mayor who is running in the New Hampshire Democratic primary, criticized administration approval of U. S. assistance for construction of a truck factory in the Soviet Union. He said in a statement at Nashua, "Trucks can help roll the Red Army into other nations and can be exported by the Russian communists in other areas of the world."

—New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, campaigning in Florida, said the Senate should reject Richard G. Kleindienst's nomination as attorney general because of controversy over his role in settlement of an anti-trust case has cast "a cloud over the Justice Department."

—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, making a fast closing push for write-in votes in the New Hampshire Democratic primary, announced he would run in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and possibly other primaries as an active presidential candidate.

—Florida Gov. Reubin Askew said George C. Wallace would win the Sunshine State's Democratic primary, but would remain a candidate with limited appeal.

Despite a heavy rain, Sen. Henry M. Jackson joined 2,000 persons at a Tampa, Fla. barbeque at which he attacked Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's stand on busing. "In Texas he says he's against busing and then he comes to Florida and tells you he's for it."

Humphrey picked up the endorsements of three major Florida daily newspapers — Today in Cocoa, the Daytona Beach News-Journal and the St. Petersburg Independent.

Aide Defends State Welfare Reform Act

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A study by Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration indicates the governor's welfare reform program is not as successful as he has boasted, but an official says the report was only a "quick look" at welfare revisions.

Reforms implemented by Reagan's Welfare Reform Act last year resulted in negligible reductions in caseloads and minor cost savings, the San Francisco Examiner reported Sunday.

The Examiner said it obtained the information from a secret 100-page preliminary report compiled by 34 Welfare Department staff members.

The newspaper reported the study showed that except in a few instances, the reforms — hailed by Reagan in recent Congressional testimony — failed to change much during the first three months of implementation, September to December.

But Robert B. Carleson said Sunday the report was a "quick look" at how the reforms were being implemented. He said the report has been "no secret and it's not now," adding that the department distributed a news release Monday about the study.

"At no time have we ever said welfare rolls declined because of the Welfare Reform Act," Carleson said.

He said the decline recently announced by the governor was due to "administrative changes" nd it was too early to measure the effect of the welfare revisions.

Carleson called the study a "management tool" and aid he did not expect the information would be compiled into a report to the governor.

Reagan told a Senate Committee two weeks ago that 182,600 persons had been trimmed from California's welfare rolls and cited the decline as "dramatic proof" that his reform program "has brought welfare back under control in California."

State Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, said last week Reagan's claims that his reform acts had cut welfare rolls were "simply not true."

The Examiner, in an article by Sacramento correspondent Dennis J. Opatrny, said the report, recalled after brief circulation among the Welfare Department staff, showed far less effectiveness in cutting costs and reducing welfare rolls than claimed by Reagan.

The newspaper said a "reform" provision requires children of parents on Old Age Security (OAS) to contribute more to their mother's or father's support. Before welfare reform, the average contribution was $20 a month. The law raised the requirement to $62, but the study shows the average climbed only to $25.

The Reform Act also was supposed to force absent fathers—those separated or divorced or who have deserted their families—to pay more in support of youngsters receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC).

In September, the month before reform measures took effect, absent fathers' contributions averaged $82.40 a month. After Welfare reform, the report said it went up 40 cents to $82.80.

The new laws "have not yet made any real difference," the report said, but suggested the study period might be too short.

One minor accomplishment was cited —a drop in Californians on welfare who live outofstate —from 6,200 last July to 2,900 on Jan. 1.

Rahman's Trip Ends

DACCA (UPI) — Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman returned home today from his five-day official visit to the Soviet Union to a typically exuberant welcome from thousands of shouting and shoving Bengalis.

Butz Planning Trade To China

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says the Agriculture Department will work vigorously to exploit trade with China and Russia.

"If they have the dollars it is better to spend them for food rather than hardware," Butz said Sunday.

In an address to the Outstanding Young Farmer Natioal Congress, Butz praised President Nixon's trip to China and forthcoming journey to Moscow.

"At least they are talking and the next step will be trade," he said. "I can assure you that the Agriculture Department will be in there working vigorously to exploit that market."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Hughes Deduction

OS ANGELES (UPI) — Howard Hughes has gone on spending millions of dollars a year on the "Spruce Goose" — the strange, giant flying boat he built of wood and put into storage — a quarter century ago — and deducts the expense from his corporate income for tax purposes, according to a former top aide.

Hughes may have more than $50 million invested in the "Spruce Goose" by now, said Noah Dietrich, who was a key figure in the Hughes empire until he left in 1957.

At that time, Dietrich said in an interview Sunday, Hughes "was spending $3 to $4 million a year regluing the wooden fuselage and changing engines."

The costs of housing and maintaining the huge airplane are deducted from the income of a Hughes corporation as "ordinary and necessary business expenses," Dietrich said.

Busing Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Almost two-thirds of all Americans favor school desegregation, but even more — 69 per cent — oppose compulsory busing to achieve racial balance, a Gallup poll published today in Newsweek magazine indicates.

"Opposition to racial busing cuts across geographic, economic and — to a surprising extent —even across racial lines, according to the telephone survey of a national cross-section of 548 adults," the Newsweek article reported.

Sixty-eight per cent of Northern whites and 74 per cent of Southern whites are opposed to compulsory busing, Newsweek said.

And nearly half the blacks sampled were against such busing, the magazine reported, although it said there were too few blacks surveyed to provide a reliable statistical sampling.

Paint Poisoning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Richard S. Schweicker, R-Pa., today urged intensified government efforts to combat lead-based paint poisoning of children — a problem he said is nearly epidemic in inner-city areas.

He asked for enactment of legislation that would earmark $50 million yearly for research, prevention and treatment programs — nearly seven times what is being spent now.

"The appropriation of $7.5 million for the program last summer has made a significant beginning," Schweicker said in a statement prepared for the opening of hearings on the legislation before a Senate Health subcommittee. "However, there is much more that must be done, and we must drastically step up our efforts to combat this tragic disease."

Sihanouk Returns

HONG KONG (UPI) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, head of the Cambodian government-in-exile, flew into Shanghai from Hanoi Sunday after an unofficial trip to North Vietnam, the New China News Agency said today.

Some diplomatic observers said Sihanouk left Peking for Hanoi shortly before President Nixon's arrival in China to avoid the embarrassment of meeting the U.S. president.

Bus Strike Over

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The buses rolled today in Los Angeles and three neighboring counties for the first time in a week, ending a transit strike t shut down the nation's third largest bus system.

The Southern California Rapid Transit District said operations were going normally.

The RTD strike affected 400,000 commuters in Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

The strike was called by the 650 mechanics of Amalgamated Transit Union Local 1277, who walked off their jobs last Monday.

The mechanics, who earned $5.15 an hour before the strike, won a 33-month contract that provides a 28-cent an hour raise retroactive to last September, and future increases topping out at $6.05 an hour by 1974.

Marijuana Drive

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Marijuana Initiative says that 40,000 persons have signed petitions in the first phase of a drive to put the issue of "decriminalization" of pot on the November ballot.

The ballot measure would remove criminal penalties for an adult's personal use of marijuana, but does not affect existing laws against sale or possession for sale of the drug. It would include the freedom to grow a small quantity for individual consumption.

A CMI spokesman said Sunday that the campaign, which includes a voter registration drive among the 18-to-21-year olds, has been organized in 44 of the state's 58 counties.

Toll Now 103

MAN, W. Va. (UPI) — With five miles of the devastated Buffalo Creek Valley still to be searched, the toll in West Virginia's flood disaster has passed 100.

Ten bodies were found Sunday, bringing the number killed to 103.

The National Guard said 79 persons still were missing.

Col. William S. Maroney, commander of National Guard search teams, said 70 per cent of the narrow, 18-mile long valley had been searched.

IRA Kills 'Spy' Of British Army

BELFAST (UPI) — Little more than a month ago Marcus McCausland quit his captain's post in Northern Ireland's part-time defense regiment because he "didn't like the way it was being run," friends said today.

The bound, hooded body of McCausland, a Roman Catholic and one of Ulster's wealthiest landowners, was found shot to death Saturday on a snowy country road outside Londonderry.

He died, said the Irish Republican Army (IRA), because he was a spy for the British army—a Catholic who had betrayed his own kind in Northern Ireland's maze of intrigue and sectarian bloodshed.

The politically-oriented "official" IRA wing said Sunday that McCausland, 39, was kidnaped from his home at Dreenagh, 15 miles east of Londonderry, then interrogated for four hours before gunmen pumped two bullets into his head.

"It was established through interrogation that he was actually working for British intelligence," an IRA statement said.

But friends of McCausland, descendant of one of Northern Ireland's oldest plantation families with an ancestry dating to the 17th Century, said he resigned from the paramilitary Ulster Defense Regiment (UDR) in January.

"He said he didn't like the way it was being run," said one friend, who declined to give his name. "He said he disagreed with too many things—a matter of conscience—to continue."

In another development, a statement in Dublin by the IRA's militant "Provisional" wing blamed protestant extremists for Saturday's explosion in a packed Belfast restaurant which killed two women and maimed scores of others.

Doctors called the blast at Abercorn's restaurant the "bloodiest, most awful" single act of violence since strife between Ulster's Catholic minority and protestant majority flared into bloodshed in August, 1969.

"Of course this is the work of the IRA—who else?" a police spokesman said afterwards.

The IRA denied responsibility for the blast.

Three GIs Killed In Ammo-Yard Mishap

SAIGON (UPI)—Three American soldiers were killed today when ammunition they were stacking exploded.

The three, who were not identified, were stacking old ammunition in an enclosed area at Long Binh, the U.S. headquarters in Vietnam, 18 miles from Saigon.

The blast was tremendous, much larger than the normal ammunition for rifles and machineguns would have caused, officers at the base said. They added that an investigation was ordered into the possibility of sabotage, a stray guerrilla mortar round or the chance that land mines or bombs had been improperly stored in the area.

The storage yard was 30 feet square and surrounded on three sides with dirt walls 10 feet high and three feet thick. The fourth side opened onto a vacant field.

Old ammunition is stored in the yard. Ammunition which can be salvaged is sent away to be packed into new cases, while the rest is taken to disposal areas and blown up.

Elsewhere, guerrilla rockets hit the big U.S. air base at Cam Ranh Bay an hour before dawn today, slightly injuring one man with shrapnel. It was the first time Cam Ranh Bay had been rocketed since Jan. 16. The U.S. command reported that Navy planes flew two more "protective reaction" strikes against antiaircraft guns in North Vietnam on Sunday. Results of those strikes were not known.

In South Vietnam's Central Highlands, where North Vietnamese infiltration is reported at its highest in years, allied patrols found sections of a brand-new guerrilla road leading east from the tri-border area of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

South Vietnamese engineers were sent in to blow up sections of the road and fell dense jungle trees with dynamite so the road could be seen from the air.

All told, 116 men were killed or wounded on both sides— including one American wounded at Cam Ranh Bay—in the 24 hours ended early today.

Married People Have Highest Rate

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Married people have the lowest suicide rate in Singapore, says a study made by three medical students at the University of Singapore.

Their report, appearing in a medical journal, and divorced or separated couples top the suicide list, followed by the widowed and then bachelors and spinsters.

Miracle Coating Replaces House Paint for 15 Years

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the home owner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 15 years. This remarkable textured coating is asbestos TEX COAT.

The Atomic Energy Commission has used TEX COAT texture Coating for several years at Los Alamos, New Mexico, atomic plant. Thousands of gallons of this remarkable exterior surfacing have been applied to provide weatherproofing and beauty, far outlasting ordinary paint.

Over 1,000,000 TEX COAT applications on homes, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, 10,000 in Southern California alone, remain in perfect condition after more than 15 years exposure in all weather extremes.

The Veterans' Administration, Sawtelle, in Los Angeles, has applied TEX COAT to the exteriors of their buildings. The Kenitex coating is applied in one quick spray application without muss, fuss or odor — at a thickness 20 times that of ordinary paint. It fills holes, cracks and hides building defects, yet does not conceal the original architectural lines.

Homes and Guided Missiles

Unique among TEX COAT applications is the use on guided missiles where its insulating properties shield the missile from extreme temperatures. TEX COAT obtains these qualities from its basic components of asbestos, mica and perlite, which are noted for their insulation and durability.

Shot From a Gun

TEX COAT is guaranteed for 15 years against chipping, flaking or peeling . . . it is extremely flexible and withstands all normal building expansion and contraction. Actually, "Shot from a Gun" TEX COAT fuses to the sidewalls in a variety of beautiful decorator colors.

Two Cousins Shot During Tavern Spat

An Ohio man, in Marin County about a week, was reported in serious condition at Marin General Hospital today following an early morning shooting at a San Rafael tavern.

Another man suffered what was described as a "superficial" wound as the bullet passed through his body before striking the Ohio man.

Police were searching today for a third patron of the Fleur de France, 720 B Street.

Harvey M. McGuire, 23, who has been living at the Marin Motel at 4136 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, since his arrival from Portsmouth, Ohio, was seriously wounded in his right shoulder and chest.

His cousin, James R. McGuire, 29, of Pikeville, Ky., also staying at the motel, was treated for a superficial gunshot wound in his chest, the hospital reported.

The shooting took place at 12:04 a.m. today.

Details provided by witnesses of the shooting and events leading up to it were sketchy, police said. Four other patrons of the tavern were "very calmly" still drinking their drinks when police arrived, officers said.

Police issued a bulletin for a white man, described as about 38 or 40 years old, five feet-eight inches tall, about 170 pounds, with dark, curly hair.

The man had been sitting next to the McGuire men and had bought them a drink prior to the shooting, police said.

One witness told officers he heard the suspected man say "you punk." The witness turned and saw the man fire a revolver at James McGuire from about one foot away.

The man then fled the tavern. A plastic athletic mouthpiece believed to be his was found on the bar.

Police said the bullet struck James McGuire in the back and exited through his right chest. It then struck Harvey McGuire in the right shoulder, traveled down his back, lodging itself atop his kidney, officers said.

Suit Against Ben Gay Dismissed

The Holiday Magic Inc. $550,000 suit against the firm's former president Ben F. Gay III has been dismissed in Marin Superior Court.

The first paragraph in the Independent-Journal story o the case Saturday contained a typographical error making it appear as if the suit was still active. The story also incorrectly identified the church which Gay heads, the Hilltop House Church in San Rafael.

Conservationists Launch Drive To Halt Firing Of Legal Officer

A campaign to prevent the firing of the legal officer of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District has been launched by a group of Marin conservationists.

The legal officer, Matthew S. Walker, has been under fire since October from several district directors who want him fired on the ground that he has failed to "cooperate fully" with the district's top administrator, D. J. Callaghan.

Walker, in turn, has charged Callaghan with shielding polluters from prosecution. Bitterly divided district directors also have received a 72-page documented set of charges against Callaghan compiled by a member of the district's advisory council.

The Marin group, calling itself "Support Matthew Walker!" has mailed 1,000 appeals for a letter-writing campaign to the district's board of directors. The battle within the district, the Marin group declared, "will affect all of us."

Its mailer said that "there are forces at work which are undermining" strict controls needed on air pollution. "One of the leaders in the fight for strict controls has been Matthew Walker," it said, adding that "because of his efforts, Mr. Walker is not only under attack but is in danger of being removed from his position, which he has filled admirably for 12 years."

A board hearing on the move to fire Walker will be held at 10 a.m. on March 15 in district offices at 939 Ellis Street, San Francisco, the Marin group noted.

The mailer made a special point of the fact that Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. is vice chairman of the personnel committee that made the charges against Walker — and that Arrigoni voted in committee to fire Walker.

"It is important that he be persuaded to reverse his stand," the Marin group declared. "He should support Matthew Walker and strict enforcement of pollution regulations," it said.

Citizens were urged to write the board of directors of the district and request that they retain Walker. "An effective letter-writing campaign can change votes," they said.

The mailer was signed by Joan Seminario of Kentfield, Dan Campbell of Forest Knolls and Paul Jacob of Mill Valley. Mrs. Seminario was coordinator of the successful campaign last year against the Marin-Sonoma Aqueduct, Campbell is a teacher and ecological consultant, and Jacob is head of the Marin Ecology Center.

BREAKING IN A NEW MUNICIPAL COURT

Judge David R. Baty, formerly justice of the West Marin Justice Court, confers with bailiff Warren Wright in his first day as judge of the new Fourth Department of the Marin Municipal Court. Legal reporter Kathy Douglass was poised nearby today waiting to take down the first case, which turned out to be small claims. A jury trial was scheduled this afternoon. Although in his own municipal court for the first time, Baty has had experience sitting in for vacationing judges. He automatically became Marin's fourth municipal judge when the state legislature created the new department last year.

Dual Role Of Angela Questioned

SAN JOSE (UPI) —The prosecution Monday hammered away at Angela Davis' dual role as both defendant and co-counsel in her kidnap-murder-conspiracy trial.

Assistant State Attorney General Albert W. Harris Jr., in questioning prospective jurors, dwelt on the difference between what Miss Davis may say from the floor of the courtroom as one of the defense counsel and what she may say from the witness stand if she decides to testify.

"What she says as co-counsel is not evidence," Harris told potential jurors.

"If she argues or directs questions to witnesses it is not evidence —only what comes from the witness stand is evidence."

Earlier, Harris had noted that Miss Davis might or might not give evidence from the witness stand but that the jury would have to differentiate if she does.

Mrs. Alice F. Evarts, a clerk at Sears Roebuck in Mountainview, Calif., whose husband is a graduate student and teaching assistant at Stanford University, became the second of 12 potential jurors now in the jury box to be tentatively accepted.

Juror No. 1, Mrs. Peter Ruth, was tentatively accepted by both sides last week.

Approximately $4,500 in personal property aboard the vessel also was stolen, police said.

The Marin County Aviation Commission, meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center, will consider a request that a Novato Citizens' Committee be involved in planning joint military-civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base.

The request, forwarded by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, was considered last month by the board of supervisors but no action was taken.

Also on the commission's agenda is a proposal that it ask the Association of Bay Area Governments study the noise impact of commercial use at Hamilton.

Development Moratorium On Agenda

A request for a 90-day moratorium on development of remaining parcels of the Pimentel Ranch property and in the San Rafael Park area will be considered by the San Rafael City Council tonight.

The moratorium has been requested by the Monte Marin Homeowners Association to study the possibility of homeowners forming an assessment district to purchase some of the property for preservation as open space.

The property lies south of Lucas Valley Road in the northwest portion of San Rafael.

In other action requested by the planning commission, the council will consider amending the city subdivision ordinance by lengthening the amount of time plans can be studied before they are automatically considered approved.

The council, meeting at 8 p.m. at city hall, is also expected to sign a contract with architect Andrew J. Ring III for construction of restrooms at the city library.

Horse Ordinance To Be Considered

An ordinance to control the keeping of horses in the City of Tiburon will be considered by the city planning commission at 8 p.m. today.

ITT

and said: "I just had a dressing down by the attorney general such as I never received in my life."

Liszka said Mitchell's lecture to Mrs. Beard occurred in Louisville at the time of the Kentucky Derby and the attorney general charged that she was using "improper channels" to obtain a favorable settlement of ITT's case.

Liszka said he has been treating Mrs. Beard for nine years. After publication of Anderson's columns, he testified, Mrs. Beard complained to him of "shortness of breath" when he visited her at her home. He said she told him she was going to New York to talk to ITT officials and it would be "a strenuous trip."

"I told her not to go but she went anyway," the doctor said.

The next thing he heard, Liszka said, was when a close friend of the family called him from Denver and told him Mrs. Beard had suffered an attack during her flight from New York, an attendant had administered oxygen to her and she was "almost unconscious."

Asked when she would be able to testify before the committee about the role in the settlement of Attorney General-designate Richard G. Kleindienst, Liszka said: "In her present condition it would be extremely hazardous. Any emotional stress would definitely bring back her symptoms and endanger her health."

TRIAL

Douglas testified, was made in a letter addressed to "Molly," which he said was the code name for FBI Special Agent Delmar H. Mayfield Jr. He said that after Mayfield received the letter they had an evening meeting.

"He told me if my thoughts were along these lines, just forget about it," Douglas said.

"Did you meet face to face with Mayfield?" asked Herman.

"Yes," Douglas replied. "He told me no—that this request would not be considered."

Douglas said that prior to receiving the $1,500 he had received a few hundred," from Mayfield for expenses in cash.

The $1,500 check, he said, went into his savings account in a Philadelphia bank.

Lynch read the "Molly" letter to the jury of nine women and three men. It started by thanking the bureau for the "reward," and said it would be used to purchase a new car.

"I did buy a new car," Douglas testified.

In the letter, Douglas said he wanted the government to get him an honorable discharge from the Army and wanted the $50,000 divided up —$5,000 the first week in December (1970) and the rest "at the start of the trial or when things are blown wide open."

"This figure may sound a little high, but considering everything, I feel it is worth it to the government and it will make a life for me," the letter said.

THE OBSTACLE

A train would have a problem trying to get around this pole on a railroad spur at Wauwatosa, Wis., a Milwaukee suburb. The pole was there first and the track extension for a new industry in the area was built around the pole. The pole and wires will be moved so the spur can be used.

Two Teen-Agers Booked On Pot

Two Southern Marin teenagers were booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall Saturday on suspicion of burglary and possessing marijuana after a Mill Valley woman surprised them in her home.

Police said the youths, a 14-year-old Tamalpais Valley boy and a 15-year-old Sausalito boy, were discovered by Dorace Schmidt, of 31 Wildomar Avenue, at about 4:37 p.m.

The boys fled, according to officers, but were caught minutes later. Approximately one ounce of suspected marijuana was found in their possession after the arrest, police reported.

Their identities were withheld by order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Motorboat Capsizes Off Duxbury Reef

A 17-foot outboard motorboat capsized near Duxbury Reef during the weekend; injuring one man who was flown to a San Francisco hospital by Coast Guard helicopter.

Two other men on the boat My Freedom were uninjured in the accident, which happened about 9 a.m. Saturday, according to a Coast Guard spokesman. Owner and operator of the boat was Robert W. Ryder of Seaside, Monterey County.

Injured was Emil Fronten, 67, address unknown, who was treated for mild shock at a San Francisco hospital. Also on board was Clinton Dulinsky of San Francisco.

The Coast Guard spokesman said a fishing vessel, the Blue Dolphin, picked up the three men. The Coast Guard cutter Point Winslow towed the boat to San Francisco.

Judge Salary Bill Introduced

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Seln John Holmdahl, D-Oakland, has proposed a bill preventing judges from getting salary increases in years when most state employes do not receive wage boosts.

A spokesman for Holmdahl said the bill would permit salary increases for judges only in years when a "substantial proportion" of state employes receive pay hikes.

"It is manifestly unfair that this classification of state employes —or any classification of state employe—should receive substantial across-the-board salary increases while all other employes are denied any general increase," Holmdahl said Sunday.

Holmdahl said under state law judges receive salary increases based on changes in the consumer price index.

Railcar Firm Seeking Track Spur For Service

The Morgan Railcar Co. of Greenbrae has proposed that it take over the abandoned railroad spur between Larkspur and Sausalito to reestablish freight and passenger service.

The proposal will be considered at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow by the Marin County Transit District board, meeting at the Civic Center.

As outlined by Douglas Morgan, who operates the railcar refurbising firm, his company would repair at its expense the entire eight-mile stretch, abandoned late last year by North-Western Pacific Railroad.

In return, the firm wants a 10-year lease on the right-of-way, rail trestles and tunnels at a price to be negotiated.

The proposal says the company will offer freight service between Sausalito and Larkspur and suburban service between the Baltimore Park area and Sausalito.

County officials appeared skeptical of the proposal, since much of the abandoned right-of-way already has reverted to private ownership and the county still is negotiating for the portion belonging to the railroad.

In other matters, the transit district board is expected to hear reports on patronage of the Golden Gate Bridge District's bus service, Marin Transit System's demonstration bus runs and the status of purchase of the railroad right-of-way.

Warning On Ross Creek Work Delay

Ross Valley Sanitary District directors have warned the Ross Town Council that halting or long delay of the Army Corps of Engineers flood control work on Corte Madera Creek could lead to new headaches for a district sewer project.

Eugene A. Ostaggi, chairman of the sanitary district directors, wrote that the creek project is being paralelled by installation of a 39-inch sewer main and other improvements in a $5 million program demanded by the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

The district already has spent $933,500 on work which will be worthless unless the sewer can proceed through Ross, Ostaggi explained.

The town council is expected to act Thursday on a Marin Superior Court order that it either set a referendum election on the flood control channel through Ross or cancel its approval of the Army Engineers. The order resulted from a suit by Ross resident Peter B. Valentine.

Ostaggi wrote that the sanitary district must complete its sewer work by fall 1973 under the Bay Area water watchdogs' orders to stop raw sewage from polluting Corte Madera Creek during storms.

If the Army work is blocked, the sanitary district may have to condemn new easements for a different route, with extra cost and delays, Ostaggi warned.

Won't Relent To Pickets

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The owner of Rolf's restaurant Sunday said he will not relent to pickets until he's "had time to check whether (their) cause is legitimate."

Rolf Lewis continued serving wine made by eight wineries under fire by the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee despite pickets who showed up Saturday and Sunday at his restaurant near Aquatic Park.

"I'm not going to be pushed into a boycott until I've had time to check whether your cause is legitimate," Rolf said.

About 14 pickets handed out leaflets urging passers-by not to dine there. "Since 1967," the leaflet said, "farmworkers at the eight wineries (Charles Krug, Sebastiani, Korbel, Beringer, Martini, Mondavi, Weibel and Wente) ... have been trying to win union contracts. This past summer, picketing and union organizing activity resulted in workers being fired and beaten."

New Hampshire, Florida Ballots—Youth Testers

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The primary balloting in New Hampshire and Florida this week and next will provide the first clear signs of whether an older generation of presidential hopefuls is reaching a fresh political fountain of youth—the newly franchised 18-through-20-year-old voting set.

Every candidate involved in the two states has welcomed youthful volunteers and made strong pitches for the teen-age votes in New Hampshire Tuesday and Florida one week later.

But the response has been spotty, ranging from the apathetic or the uncommitted at the college level to the enthusiastic among high school students.

In both states, an estimated 35 per cent of the 18 to 21 age group has registered. This would mean approximately 33,000 of them in New Hampshire are entitled to vote in a state where there are slightly more than 400,000 registered voters.

In Florida with 2,982,076 qualified voters and 1353,000 under 21, there were 129,807 on the registration rolls in the 18 through 20 age bracket.

The 35 per cent registration figure tends to mirror the situation nationwide up to this point. A Democratic party survey elicited responses from 32 secretaries of state indicating between 3.5 million and 3.7 million of the new enfranchised youths had registered to vote.

Philip M. Seib, director of the Democratic National Committee's youth voter program, estimated in December that the nationwide total in the age group was 11,462,000.

Political strategists of both parties also note that more intensive efforts will be made to enroll the unregistered for the November presidential election. A sampling of figures for New Hampshire in early December showed that in Manchester, the state's largest city, 2,313 of the 4,662 in the 1820 group had registered.

Figures from Florida on Jan. 1 listed 15,441 registered out of 60,945 in Dade County; 5,259 of 20,295 in Pinelas County; 11,418 of 30,256 in Duval County, and 5,611 of 25,970 in Hillsboro County that includes Tampa.

How many of the newcomers will turn out to vote however is an enigma to the strategists of every candidate.

Four years ago, New Hampshire's primary saw the first major manifestation of youthful political activism when hundreds of college students devoted their energies to the antiwar cause of Eugene McCarthy.

This year, the campus-based fervor is absent even though the war remains a hot topic at the colleges and universities.

"There's no villain and there's no hero as in 1968," Lou Ureneck, editor-in-chief of the University of New Hampshire's student newspaper, said of the apparent apathy in the final week of the campaign. Most upper classmen are staying aloof, leaving the action to freshmen and sophomores.

But a lot of the enthusiasm of four years ago seemingly has filtered down to the high school level.

George Butler, a press aid to Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, the California Republican running against President Nixon, told UPI: "We like high school kids because they get enthusiastic about us. College students in New Hampshire are apathetic. In 1968, the college students who worked for McCarthy kme from out of state. We get most of our help from the high schoolers."

As for the New Hampshire youth vote, McCloskey and Sen. George McGovern, an antiwar candidate on the Democratic ballot, rank as favorites. Their adherents share office space at the University of New Hampshire and plan a joint car pool for election day.

The Democratic front-runner, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, has been accorded a polite but stand-offish reception.

The youth activity in Florida is more in evidence, partially because this year's balloting marks the first time the state has conducted so early a primary involving all of the major candidates.

All of them claim they have youth appeal.

Charges Dropped In Girl's Killing

INDIANOLA, Miss. (UPI)—Murder charges have been dropped against two defendants who had been accused in the 1971 street slaying of black teen-ager Jo Etha Collier.

District Attorney George Everett said Sunday that the charges were dismissed against Wayne Parks, 25, of Drew, and his nephew, Allen Wilkerson, 19, of Memphis, Tenn., because of a lack of evidence.

They were charged along with Wayne's brother, Wesley Parks, 26, of Memphis, in connection with the graduation night shooting of the 18-year-old girl last May 25.

Wesley Parks was convicted of manslaughter in Sunflower County Circuit Court in November and sentenced to 20 years in the state penitentiary. He is free under bond pending an appeal to the state supreme court.

Bird Sanctuary Areas To Be Opened

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

The Allowable Deductions For Use Of Your Auto In Business

Do you use your car for business purposes or for charitable purposes or for medical purposes?

If you do, you can claim your expenses for the use of your car on a flat mileage basis, rather than haing to compute depreciation, gas, oil, tires, etc., and then divide this between business and personal.

This is the way it works: For business use, you are allowed 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 business miles and nine cents per mile for every business mile thje-after.

You only keep a record of the business miles traveled for your car, but like every other record you keep, you must be able to substantiate the fact that the car was used for business and the number of miles traveled.

You cannot use this system and also claim depreciation on your car.

You cannot use this system if you have previously taken extra first year depreciation allowance on your car or if you have previously depreciated by one of the accelerated methods.

If you are reimbursed for the business use of your car by your employer and this reimbursement is less than 12 cents per mile, you may include the reimbursement in income and deduct the 12 cents per mile up to the first 15,000 miles and nine cents per mile thereafter.

If your reimbursement is in excess of 12 cents a mile, but not more than 15 cents a mile, you wouldn't want to use this system as you do not have to account for your automobile expense because you are considered to have accounted to your employer for the expenses. If your reimbursement is in excess of 15 cents a mile, you will have to include the reimbursement in income and itemize your automobile expenses.

You can use this system and in addition deduct parking fees and bridge tolls. You may also deduct interest paid on the purchase of the car.

If you use your car for charitable work such as soliciting funds for the United Fund, carrying children back and forth to Sunday School, doing work for the hospital or traveling from home to the place where you render personal services to a charity for which you are not reimbursed, you can deduct 6 cents per mile for the charitable use of your car.

If you use your car for medical transportation, you can increase your medical expense deduction by six cents per mile for such use of your car.

In both of these cases you can also deduct bridge tolls, parking fees, etc. You must, of course, be able to prove that you actually used your car and the actual number of miles traveled.

You can never deduct fines for parking and traffic law violations.

Exchange Prices On The Rise

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices climbed in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange Monday.

Analysts said favorable economic news last week, including a sharp rise in the government's index of leading business indicators, reaffirmed investors' confidence that the economy is recovering.

Another factor, they said, was that the market did not pull a major retreat within the past two weeks, thus luring many investors off the sidelines.

Advancing issues held a comfortable 907 to 438 advantage over decliners among the 1,635 issues crossing the tape. The two-hour turnover totaled more than 8,710,000 shares.

Prices were higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange. National Health Enterprises was the most active issue, up 5-8 to 6 7-8 on 88,800 shares.

Copper stocks were higher on the NYSE, paced by Inspiration Consolidated, up 2 7-8 and Copper Range, 1 3-8. Barron's, a financial weekly magazine, said copper prices are moving higher.

Penney Reports Good February

NEW YORK (BW) — Continuing the January trend, J.C. Penney Co. Ic. launched its new fiscal year in February with a strong showing which produced a 14.6 per cent sales gain.

Chairman William M. Batten and President C.L. Wright reported yesterday that volume for the four weeks ended Feb. 26 rose to a record $297,893,160 from $260,015,811, an increase of $37,877,349.

February was the 107th straight monthly reporting period of sales gains.

Apprenticeship Program Closes

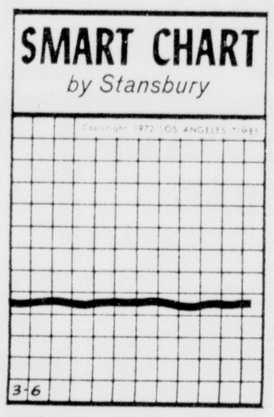

Lack of work has shut down the Bay Counties Carpenters apprenticeship program, the program director has announced. He cited a 16 per cent unemployment rate for apprentices in the Bay Area.

Director Gordon A. Littman said new applicants for training will not be accepted until work reduces the large number of presently available but unemployed apprentices.

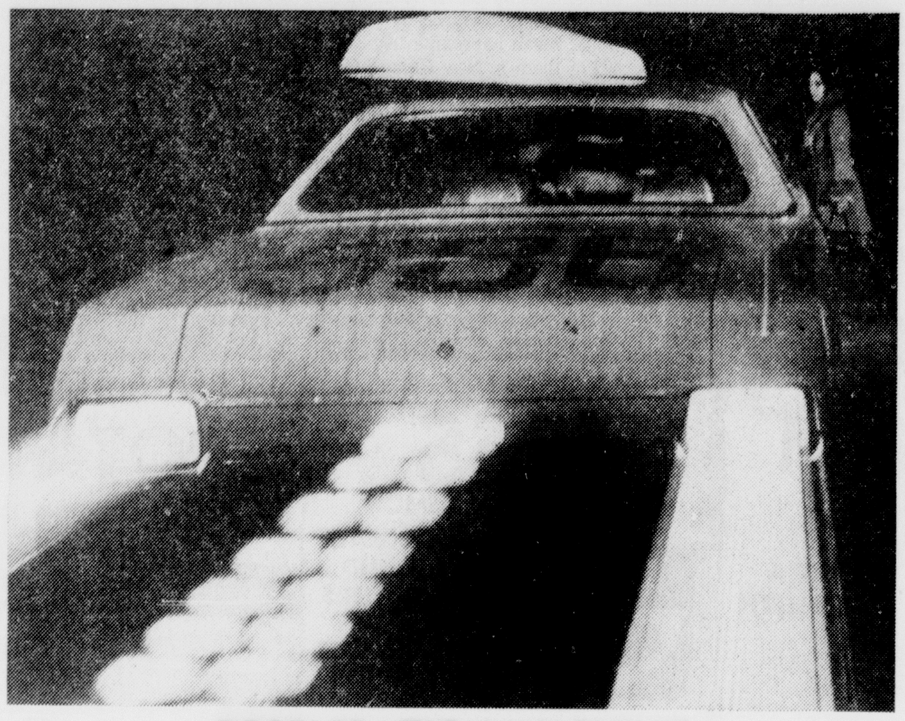

Boise Cascade Has Loss During 1971

BOISE, Idaho (BW) — Boise Cascade Corp. has reported for the year 1971 it had an after-tax operating loss of $37,150,000, or $1.20 per share, in addition to an after-tax extraordinary charge of $48,000,000, or $1.54 per share.

This total 1971 after-tax loss of $85,150,000, or $2.75 per share, compares to restated 1970 earnings of $33,950,000, or $1.08 per share.

"The Chief is worried because the advertising agency isn't bringing him any good ideas to turn down."

DECELERATION WARNING

Cyberlite, new auto deceleration warning system, is put to work as cab comes to crash stop to avoid pedestrian. Cyberlite, rearmounted on cab, senses rate of deceleration, and amber light pulses with brake application. The quicker the stop, the faster the pulse, thus a clear warning for following drivers. SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Orders Are Up — Hold Munsingwear

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Should I continue to hold my 17 shares of Munsingwear? — N.N.

A. By all means. A strong recovery in 1971 pushed operating results to new records. Earnings almost doubled depressed 1970 net, reaching $2.85 a share, while volume rose 11 per cent to $80.4 million.

Orders for spring delivery are up substantially in all product areas. If sales are maintained at the current healthy rate, 1972 could see volume reaching $90 million. On this figure, assuming margins remain at 5 per cent after tax, earnings could reach $3.20 a share.

Women's lingerie, sportswear and sleepwear account for about one-half of sales, men's underwear and sportswear and sleepwear account for about one-half of sales, men's underwear and sportswear about 45 per cent. Less than 10 per cent of sales are derived from 96 per cent-owned David Clark Co., maker of underwater diving equipment, stereo headphones and special environmental clothing.

Almost 70 per cent of this division's sales are to the government, although commercial business is being emphasized to a greater degree in recent years. In compliance with phase two objectives, MUN refrained from raising its quarterly dividend rate in March. An increase by year-end, however, is probable.

Q. Our investment club purchased 20 shares of NYSE-listed AMF, Inc. in March 1970 at 20½. Should we sell no or do you think shares have further upside potential? Could you suggest other growth companies for us to study? — J.H.

A. The 175 per cent profit now available to your club in AMF shares should be accepted. Having run up almost uninterruptedly for 21 months, appreciation from here on will undoubtedly be at a considerably slower pace.

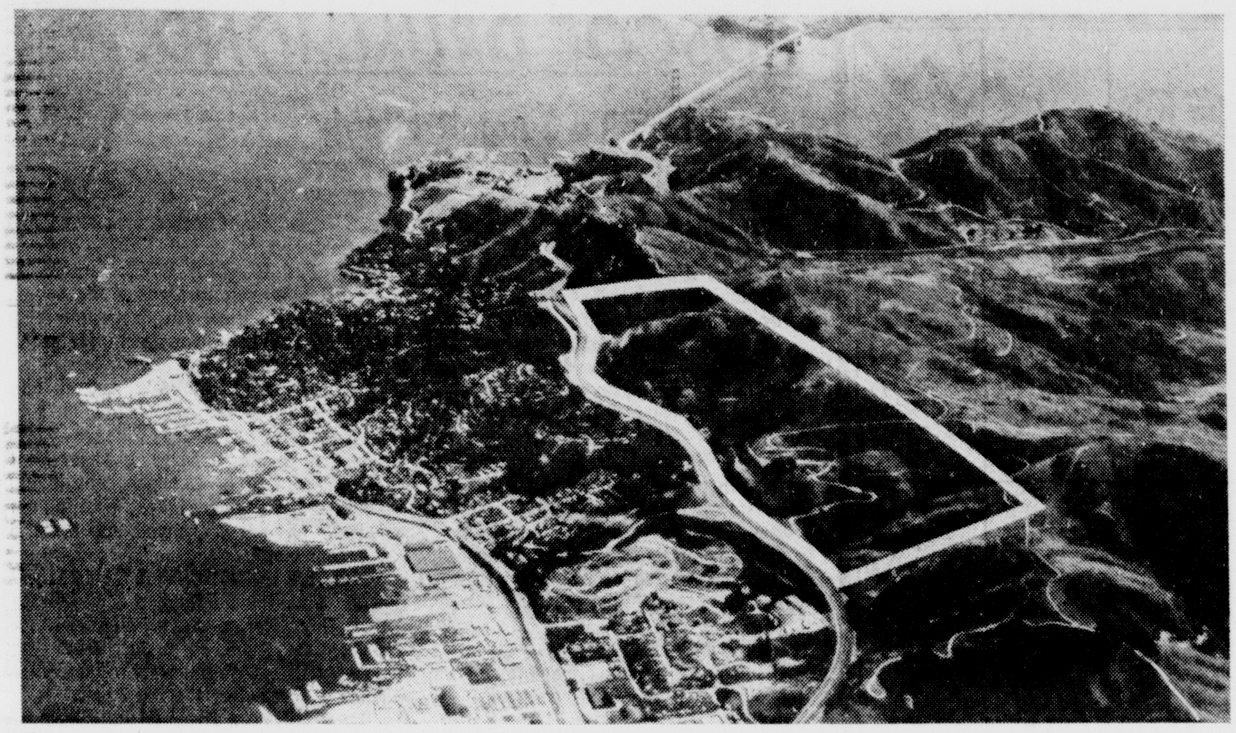

Not since the bowling boom days have these shares been appraised so generously. Investor interest reflects not only the well-sustained earnings recovery but also the current Japanese bowling craze. Benefits from this boom seem to be well-discounted at current prices.

The protection and judicious management of the environment appears to be a strong growth field for the 1970s. Within this area, I like Browning-Ferris, Peabody-Galion on the Big Board and Waste Management OTC.

OPEN SPACE FOR SAUSALITO?

A Sausalito citizens' group will urge the city council to declare a development moratorium on the outlined highlands area shown, as well as on the city's remaining undeveloped waterfront, at a special hearing in the city hall at 8 p.m. Wednesday. The open space group —as yet nameless — will argue that development of the ridges west of Highway 101 will add to Sausalito congestion, harm the Wolfback Ridge environment and bar hopes to extend the Golden Gate National Recreation Area westward to the freeway.

Sleepy Hollow Stables Area Hit By Arson Again: $30,000 Damage

Arsonists struck again early yesterday morning in the latest of a series of incidents at Sleepy Hollow Stables area in San Anselmo.

Neighbors across the street and next door reported a fire at 5:44 a.m. in a newly completed house on Katrina Lane. According to Captain Joseph DePatta of the San Anselmo Fire Department, two pumpers extinguished the blaze in 15 to 20 minutes, but not before about $30,000 damage was done.

Lt. Arthur Disteheft of the Marin County Sheriff's Department, which has the case under investigation, said it was apparently arson.

The house was built by Eichler Construction Corp., and ready for sale, according to DePatta, who said this was Eichler's third house at Sleepy Hollow Stables and the second to be struck by arsonists within a month.

The first was a $10,000 kire Feb. 12. That blaze was believed caused by a flammable liquid poured over the floor, according to San Anselmo fire officials. The house was located at the end of Petrina Lane.

Even while under construction, houses in the Sleepy Hollow Stables area have been the targets of fire bombs. Last Nov. 8, a fire that burned about $1,500 worth of lumber and property on Butterfield Road, was thought to have been started with a homemade bomb.

On that occasion, the fire burned through a stack of lumber being used to build homes on the property and ignited the wall of the old stables.

According to reports, sheriff's deputies foud a 15-millimeter film can containing black powder and a fuse under the wheel of a grader near the lumber pile. Investigators believed a similar explosive device may have set off the lumber.

A year earlier Nov. 2, 1970, an arsonist was seen fleeing the site of a fire at Sleepy Hollow Stables, according to San Anselmo Fire Chief Frank Sousa.

The structure at 1251 Butterfield Road had been nearly destroyed in a fire July 1, 1966 but had been partially rebuilt, according to Sousa. No value was placed on the damage to the building at that time.

Minor Injuries In Cycle Crash

Two persons received minor injuries but declined hospital treatment in a motorcycle-camper accident eastbound on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, west of Castro Street near Forest Knolls, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Officers said Keith W. Swansen, 20, of Fremont, was hurt about 5:45 p.m. when his motorcycle struck the rear of a camper driven by Richard P. Doss, 23, of 9 Brighton Avenue, Bolinas. The patrol said Swansen had been passing slower traffic on the left and attempted to move back to the center of the roadway but failed to see the Doss vehicle stopped in front of him.

Diane Jenks, 21, of Hayward, a passenger on the cycle, was also injured in the crash.

Prison Officials Can Be Sued By Inmates, Top Court Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court let stand today a federal appeals court ruling that state prison officials are subject to damage suits by inmates who are mistreated or arbitrarily punished without a hearing.

The brief order issued without comment rejected an appeal by New York state authorities from a decision, by the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which will now apply at least in New York, Connecticut and Vermont. The case involved Martin Sostre, a black inmate who was ordered into solitary confinement at a state facility after an altercation with the warden over his mailing privileges and other rights.

Sostre, imprisoned as a secondary felony offender, filed a $2.5 million damage suit against three state prison officials and at the federal trial court level won a $13,000 award.

The appeals court modified the trial judge's finding but in general upheld Sostre's right to sue. It held that inmates should be given advance notice of charges and evidence against them and a chance to explain their behavior.

The appeals court also ruled that Sostre could not be punished for possessing any literature except in accordance with reasonable regulations.

The time is past, the appeals court decision said, when a prisoner can be treated "as temporarily a slave of the state."

In other actions, the Supreme Court:

—Agreed to a Justice Department request to expedite a decision on a controversy between Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, and a federal grand jury in Boston which is investigating the publication of the Pentagon Papers. Gravel claims that his congressional immunity protects from questioning an aide, Dr. Leonard S. Rodberg, and officials of a firm that published the secret documents as made public by the senator.

—Agreed to speed up consideration of whether the Federal Power Commission (FPC) has authority to allocate natural gas supplies in favor of homeowners during times of shortage. The FPC said an adverse decision by a federal appeals court had held up its action on 26 other cases throughout the country.

—Let stand today the conviction of a University of California demonstrator who called a news conference in violation of a judge's order against pre-trial publicity.

The court's brief order means the apellant, Steven Hamilton, must serve his sentence, which was stayed by Justice Thurgood Marshall pending disposition of the appeal. Hamilton argued his free speech rights were infringed.

The sentence was 180 days in the county jail, 140 days suspended, three years probation and a $500 fine.

The situation arose from a widely publicized 1966 demonstration on the Berkeley campus to protest the presence of U. S. armed service recruiters. Hamilton and four others were charged with committing a public nuisance and unlawful occupation of buildings.

—Ruled today that a state has the authority to require a wife to assume her husband's surname at the time of marriage — women's lib notwithstanding — and that this includes getting a driver's license in her married name. In a one-sentence order the Court, affirmed a decision to this f-fect handed down Sept. 28, 1971, by a special threejudge federal court in Alabama in the case of an Anniston woman.

When Miss Wendy Forbush married Ronald P. Carver on Sept. 21,1970, they agreed she would continue to use her maiden name in her personal and business dealings.

But when she applied for a driver's license, the state Department of Motor Vehicles, which had for 35 years required a married woman to carry a license in her husband's surname, refused to change its practice.

—Refused to hear a claim by Michigan prison inmates that they were entitled to regular minimum wages for taking part in a "human guinea pig" program for drug companies.

Thirty-five inmates of the Southern Michigan prison at Jackson, Mich., contended the issue was important because "the treatment of inmates of our penal institutions is a subject of national concern ... in the light of Attica."

They referred to the disturbances last September at Attica, N.Y., prison that ended in 43 deaths among prisoners and guards.

Gold Panner Wins Again

ROSAMOND, Calif. (UPI) — Murray Hirota, a newspaperman, won the world gold panning championship Sunday, defeating a field of competitors that included his wife.

Hirota, of Azusa, Calif., shook the sand in 21.5 seconds from the traditional Forty-Niners pan containing eight gold nuggets, to take the championship for the third time. He won last year and in 1962.

His wife Mickey won the Women's competition, but lost out in the overall championships.

Larry Bertles, Palmdale, Calif., was second and Prospector John of Skagway, Alaska placed third.

A crowd of 4,000 persons watched the gold panners at the Tropico Gold Mine in the Mojave Desert.

Sewage Superagency Is Topic

Replacement of eight Southern and Central Marin sanitary districts by a single agency for collection, treatment and disposal of sewage will be considered Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Marin Civic Center by the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission.

As recommended by the county board of supervisors, the districts would be dissolved and their functions taken over by Marin Municipal Water District.

Many districts, meanwhile, have voiced opposition to the proposal and have suggested instead that an "umbrella" agency be created to take over treatment and disposal. Individual districts would remain in charge of collection.

The affected sanitary districts include Alto, Homestead Valley, Richardson Bay, Almonte, Sausalito-Marin City and Tiburon in the Richardson Bay watershed, and Corte Madera and Ross Valley Sanitary districts in the Corte Madera Creek watershed.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, an agency formation commission member, has requested continuance of the matter since he will not be able to attend Wednesday's meeting.

Motorcycle Stolen At Redwood High

A 1971 motorcycle belonging to a Tiburon youth was reported stolen from the parking lot of Redwood High School yesterday, according to Larkspur police.

Timothy A. Hilton of 4 Santa Ana Court told police he had parked his orange Honda 175 at the school at 7:30 p.m. Friday, but it was missing at 11 a.m. yesterday. License of the motorcycle is 876528, police said.

Household safety: four things you should do. And a couple you shouldn't.

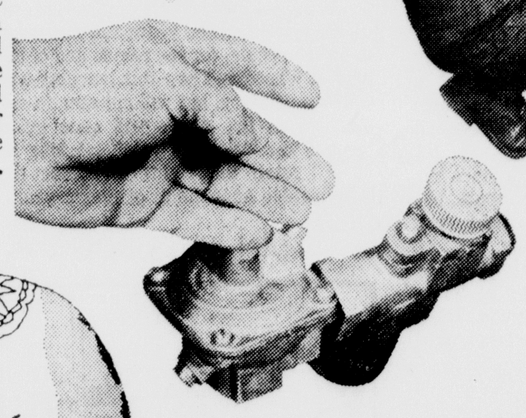

1. Have your gas appliances thoroughly checked once a year by your appliance or furnace man or your plumber. While he's there ask him to make sure safety pilots are operating properly, air openings on burners are clean and set for a blue flame.

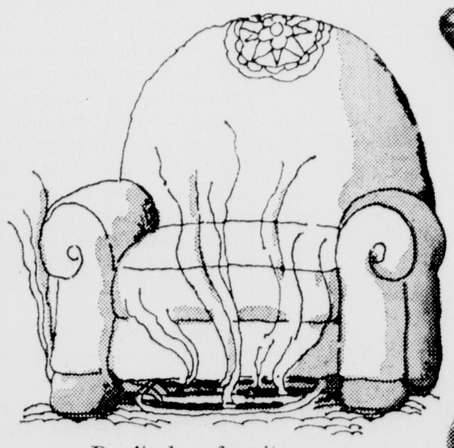

2. Get rid of any rusted or loose-fitting vent and flue pipes. Have them checked annually. If you ever should smell a gas leak call PG&E immediately.

3. Make sure that burners and controls on your gas furnace, wall or floor heater are clean at all times. And be sure to clean or replace dirty furnace filters periodically.

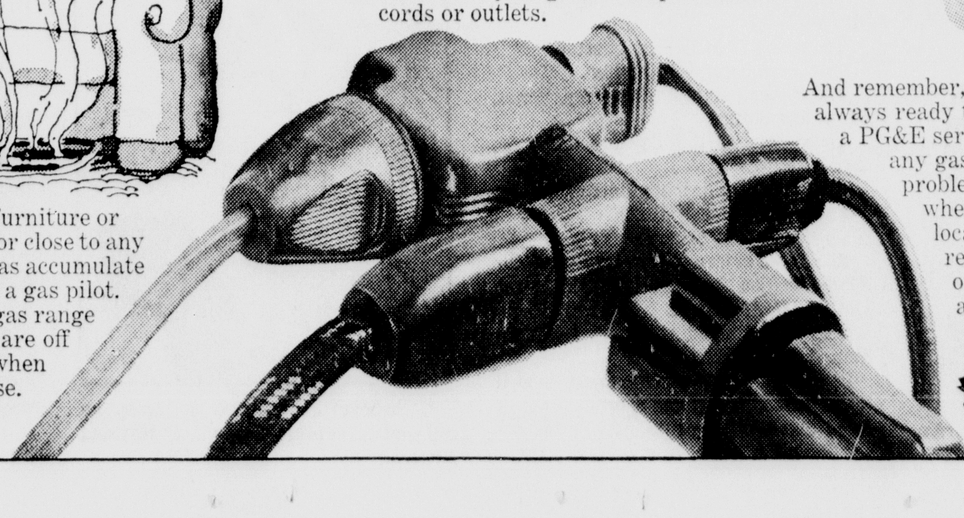

4. When you disconnect appliances, pull plug first from the outlet. Also make sure electric tools are properly grounded, and frayed or broken electric cords are replaced.

Don't place furniture or drapes over or close to any heater. Or let gas accumulate before lighting a gas pilot. Be sure that gas range burners are off completely when not in use.

Never connect too many appliances to one outlet or circuit. And never let youngsters tamper with cords or outlets.

And remember, too, that we're always ready to help. If you call for a PG&E service man to check-out any gas leak or gas service problem, ask him to show you where your gas pilots are located and how to go about relighting them. If repairs or parts are needed, call an appliance or furnace service man or your plumber.

Sausalito School Program Up To Vote

Sausalito School District voters will ballot tomorrow on whether to permit the district to levy up to $2.20 per $100 assessed valuation as general purpose operating tax this year and next year.

The current limit on this tax in the Sausalito district is $2.40. But authorization for this limit expires with the end of the current fiscal year on June 30. So if the proposed $2.20 limit does not receive a majority vote, the tax rate will fall back to 90 cents per $100 assessed valuation for next year — the statutory limit on an elementary school district without voter approval for higher taxes.

THE SAUSALITO district is in an unusual position. It has no bonded indebtedness, and its tax rate has been low in comparison with those of many Marin elementary school districts, yet it has been spending an extremely high amount per pupil.

This high spending has come about from two causes: (1) introduction of many special programs in an attempt (only now beginning to show some signs of success) to improve the education of the children; and (2) steadily declining enrollment. The district had average daily attendance of 1,145 in the 1961-62 school year, a decade ago. It is now below 500 and may decline further next school year.

The district has not been levying the $2.40 maximum general operating rate, nor does it intend to levy the $2.20 maximum if that is authorized. The general operating levy for this year was $1.895, and projections for next year have been made on the basis of a $1.90 rate.

SUPT. LAWRENCE A. Lindberg has prepared proposed budgets based on success or failure of the issue tomorrow. That proposal, if the tax rate is approved, calls for $1,093,240 in total, based on average daily attendance of 455. That proposal if it fails totals $674,782 for the same attendance.

Thus, the Sausalito district would spend $2,403 per child next fiscal year if the tax rate is approved, and $1,483 per child if it loses.

The latter figure is considerably above the total spending per pupil in any other Marin elementary school district. But it is far below this year's spending in Sausalito, and would require larger class sizes (about 30 pupils per class, according to Lindberg) and dropping of such extras as district-wide music, remedial reading and other special teachers.

THE ISSUE before the Sausalito voters, then, is whether they wish to continue to pay about the same taxes as now to support their schools the next two years, or wish by saving on those taxes to have the school program reduced and classes made larger.

Incidentally, although the material put out by the district refers to the $2.40 and $2.20 rates as "maximum tax rates," they are no such thing. Many school taxes can be levied on top of the voter-approved operating rate. The current total rate for the Sausalito district is $2.995 per $100 assessed valuation. It will be about the same next year if the tax measure is approved tomorrow.

You Have To See To Belive Pollution Of Bolinas Beach

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Bolinas is the only community in the Bay Area still dumping raw sewage continuously — a stinking situation at best.

Just what this means cannot communicate itself fully to the nose and eye unless it is experienced in person. I did that last week. I have written about the long battle by the Regional Water Quality Control Board to stop this filthy discharge into the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon, but never had been on the scene.

THE SETTING is lovely. Green hills, ocean, beaches and lagoon. But the first thing you notice is the stench as you approach the seawall at the end of Wharf Road.

This is pale preparation for the sight as you peer over the wall onto the water. Lumpy blob after lumpy blob of decomposing, loose fecal matter parades on the tide. Pieces drift off and are caught in a shore eddy that pulls them onto the beach.

It was the beach itself that was most disgusting, for here small children were playing by the water's edge of this open sewer. They were dabbling happily in water virtually boiling over with bacteria.

It was beyond understanding how any parent could allow his child to use such a playground. Some, of course, may not have noticed the pollution. There was, after all, no sign to warn them.

The county health department said later that warning signs have been posted, "but must have been torn down." They will be replaced, I was assured.

Perhaps most disheartening is that this gross pollution has been allowed to continue for so many years. Officialdom has made all the appropriate motions toward ending the problem, but the hard fact remains that all these motions have been without a single result.

There is no excuse for this situation, and the blame falls on many shoulders, including those of the Bolinas community itself, county supervisors and water pollution control officials.

FOR REAL neanderthalian government, however, we must give the prize to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

Its board of directors has perfected the technique of handling critics: make them wait long hours to speak, belittle them after their testimony, and refuse to give them a chance to rebut. These perverse techniques, of course, are exercised only after the usual divisive debate among board directors over whether even to allow the critic to address the royal court.

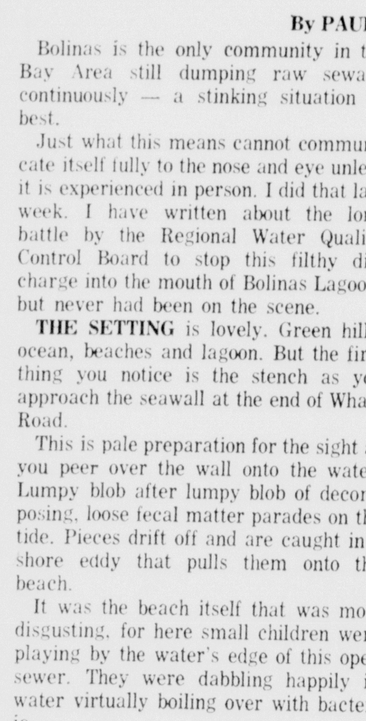

This delaying device is especially popular just before lunch so that the speaker will have even less time left to present his material before the lunch break.

Board members should remember they are paid (for what often is unclear), while members of the public come on their own time, frequently at considerable cost and inconvenience.

No public body in my acquaintance has done more to deserve its low repute, but surely its board of directors could wear their paranoia more graciously.

The public, after all, has to breathe the consequences of the district's performance. Their hearts and minds seem frozen, but at least the directors might open their ears.

Today is Monday, March 6, the 66th day of 1972.

The moon is in its last quarter.

The morning star is Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

British poet Elizabeth Barrett Browning was born March 6, 1806.

On this day in history:

In 1836 Mexican forces captured the Alamo at San Antonio, Tex., killing the last of 187 Americans who had held out for 13 days, including famed frontiersman Davy Crockett.

In 1857 the U.S. Supreme Court handed down its landmark Dred Scott decision. It ruled that Scott, a negro slave, could not sue for his freedom in a federal court.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Letters for "What Our Readers Say" are welcomed. To be published, they must bear the writer's signature and address (only the city will be printed, but street or post office box address must be included.) Try to limit letters to 200 words. Suicide Attempt Reporting Decried

Your coverage of attempted suicides is cruel, inhuman and utterly unnecessary.

Anyone so ill and despondent to attempt suicide does not need the additional burden of publicity in your paper. You gain nothing by printing details of the attempt and the follow up articles relating to their progress in the hospital and their reason for being there.

The publicity is also an embarrassment to other members of the family, especially, school age children.

It is certainly of no interest to the general public, but only to a few people with morbid curiosity.

Effect Of Petaluma School Tax Vote Asked

I understand we have a tax increase election coming up on March 21 for the Petaluma Elementary and High School Districts.

There has been some information on the Cinnabar School District tax increase election, but what about Petaluma's?

I understand Mr. Lesly Meyer, superintendent of schools, is "very concerned" about the situation. What cuts, if any, will have to be made in the education program if this tax increase is not approved on March 21?

Invasions Of Privacy By Federal Government

We are of the opinion that the most recent outrage committed by the federal government cannot go by without fervent protest.

The very idea that the IRS has the permission of the government to photograph a citizen's private bank account is reprehensible.

This and other "invasions of privacy" must be stopped at once. The government, as we learned years ago in school, is by the people, for the people and of the people. Where and how this teaching was lost is a mystery, but will not remain one for long as the people will once again through the "right to vote" (as long as we still retain that right) will correct the unbelievable happenings of recent years.

This situation and others happening in this country today boggles one's mind as well as strikes terror to the heart. The government must be made to realize who and what they truly are and most important of all, who they represent.

We ask — no — we demand an immediate and complete explanation of this most recent unbelievable occurrence.

Brave City Council To Rescue Of Signs

For years the residents of Point San Pedro have put up with dull, humdrum business signs in the Montecito Shopping Center. At last something has been done to relieve the monotony. The San Rafael City Council, ever responsive to the residents desires, has dashed to the rescue.

Boldly discarding the efforts of its own planning commission to ruin the view by striking down tall, large signs; tossing aside the advice of its planning department, which has been interminably boring from within to lessen freestanding, competing signs, the council, holding a sopping wet crying towel to the eyes of certain grievously hurt husckster of Montecito, has okayed their pleas to try once again to prove that the size and blatancy of a sign is more important than good products and services.

By day the freestanding signs screen the unfortunate architecture of the stores they serve. By night their many-colored effulgence lends a beauty not to be found in the dark masses of the hills beyond or the heavens above. Because this decision was a precedent we are assured similar aesthetic and common sense advances are in store for us at other shopping centers.

Lagunitas Board Divides Community

The last report of the Lagunitas School District board meeting in the I.J. omitted the most important development. The board's resolutin of Feb. 22 has had the effect of officially splitting the community. In yielding to a power group in their minority demand for a "school within a school", they automatically created a "without" group. This left the silent majority, the working, tax paying, without a voice. To be heard, they were left with only one alternative, create their own proposed program. This has been outlined in the ABC program which is being proposed to parents in the district in a questionnaire offering the alternatives of the present and open classroom programs . . .

The ABC program does not differ greatly from the present program except to change the emphasis toward the basics, eg. at present only 15 minutes per day are being spent on the mechanics of our language, ie. spelling and writing. It shows. It would also increase academic freedom by leaving methodology in the hands of the professional, the teacher. It would be based on the concept of accountability now required by law. Some on the board have taken the ABC program as a slap at their past work. This is not wholly the case, but where the shoe fits —

More important are the philosophical implications, eg. a large number of those in favor of the open class do not salute the flag at public ceremonies or allow their children to do so. These views and others are being carried over into the class where they have no proper place. The child becomes the pawn in an adult political game. The open class will become an educational ghetto on a de facto basis, no scouts, brownies, etc. and most of all no "straight" kids. Of such things are revolutions made, and maybe that was the idea. I don't know.

Reaction To Summit Highly Favorable In Most Quarters

Worldwide reaction to summit: Overwhelmingly favorable.

China: Pleased.

United States: Public opinion and congressional opinion nearly unanimous in applauding; praise from both parties and from most of the Democratic presidential candidates. The spasm of sharp criticism on the far right will have negligible impact.

Japan: Satisfied. It has switched its own policy to match Nixon's in saying that Taiwan is a part of China.

Russia: Relieved but apprehensive.

Taiwan: Displeased but not surprised.

Hanoi: Expected stronger support from China.

Saigon: Pleased.

Korea: At ease.

On balance, a plus diplomatically for the United States and politically for Nixon.

WHAT TO EXPECT FROM MOSCOW SUMMIT: The "reconciliation" with China will be measured in part by what happens in Moscow when the President arrives May 22.

The United States carefully included in the Peking communique assurances welcome to the Russians.

Three such assurances — no "collusion" with China adverse to Soviet Union interests, no attempt by either country to dominate Asia, an open door to peaceful competition.

NEW SOVIET POLICY IN THE MAKING. Moscow doesn't want to push the United States further into China's arms. Just as China doesn't want two enemies at the same time, neither does the Soviet Union.

Nixon's agenda for the Moscow summit includes turning the SALT talks into a first-stage treaty on nuclear arms control, expanded U.S.-U.S.S.R. trade, mutual reduction of forces in eastern and western Europe.

WHERE BLACKS LIVE: In the 24 largest metropolitan areas of the nation, the central cities are overwhelmingly black, the suburbs overwhelmingly white.

Examples: Milwaukee's central city population 98.7 per cent black, its suburbs, 1.31 per cent black; Chicago — 89.6 per cent black, suburbs 10.4 per cent black; Atlanta — 82.1 per cent black, suburbs 17.9 per cent black; Washington, D.C. — 76.4 per cent black, suburbs 23.6 per cent black.

NIXON'S FOREMOST '72 CAMPAIGNERS: Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York. They will be crisscrossing the country almost continuously in their joint goals of re-electing the President.

Their purpose: To unite the conservative and liberal wings of the party to keep a Republican in the White House.

MIXED MOTIVES OF REAGAN AND ROCKEFELLER. They are stronger for Nixon this time than in 1968. But each for different reasons:

Reagan is convinced that Nixon is the most conservative President who can be elected at this time and that conservatives are foolish to attack him and pave the way for a Democratic victory.

Rockefeller is convinced that Nixon is the most liberal candidate the Republicans will nominate at this time. He thinks that Nixon's "new" policies are just right.

PUBLIC SERVICES VS. TAX REVENUES. Democratic governors and mayors are deeply resentful that congressional Democrats have been so reluctant to support revenue sharing and social welfare reform. They point out that the states and cities perform 70 per cent of the public services and the federal government collects 70 per cent of the taxes.

Cult Of The Bulldozer Has Its Adherents In Soviet Union

MOSCOW — During this untypically moderate Russian midwinter, the occasional light layer of snow that falls during the night is dark with smoke by morning. The whole world knows that caviar is now a shortage item because of pollution in the Caspian Sea and its tributaries. There is concern among Russian naturalists about the survival of the Siberian tiger, and the moose, locally called elk, that still roam the woods not far from Moscow. Around the great oil center at Baku, an ugly slick covers the sea for many miles.

In short, the biggest country in the world, with nearly three times the land area of the United States and a much more thinly spread population, has the same kind of environmental problems we are belatedly facing in America. Scientists, journalists, eventually the production-obsessed government itself has recognized that even so vast a country is not infinite, that its rivers and seas and forests and air cannot go on forever taking the geometrically multiplying abuse heaped on them by hellbent industrial development.

And here, just as in the United States, the battle is joined between those who would protect and preserve and those who cannot see beyond the production quotas in the current five-year plan. Here, if anything, the odds against the protectors may be inherently greater, because the same government that must enforce environmental safeguards also is directly responsible for industrial success.

AS LONG AGO as 1919, Lenin had a kind word for conservation. During Khrushchev's time, the government of the Russian federation, which stretches from Finland to within sight of Alaska, adopted a series of legal dos and don'ts in every field of pollution — but put supervision under the economic planners. The poacher was appointed gamekeeper.

It was a conflict of interest even more direct than when U.S. cabinet departments and agencies are expected to oversee the destructive activities of their client industries. But at least in the states the hopelessness of that situation eventually was acknowledged in the creation of the independent Environmental Protection Agency. Here, such a step has been called for repeatedly but never yet carried out.

The limited concern shown so far by Soviet officialdom usually has related to curing problems affecting production. They are interested in learning from others about weather modification — rainmaking and snowmaking — because of the constant threat of drought and winterkill to the nation's vital crops. They are on the verge of the automobile era here (at a stage comparable to 1921 in the States), and already giving attention to cutting exhaust emissions.

Water supply and quality, in a nation chronically short of water, are in most danger. Still in the past decade the pell-mell buildup of the chemical industry was allowed to pollute streams even worse than before. Gigantic hydroelectric schemes are still being planned and built. The waters of the great Siberian rivers are to be diverted to irrigate potentially productive areas to the south, as far as Central Asia. All these projects take precedence over water preservation and protection.

IT REMAINS the land where the most holy prophet once said communism equals Soviet power plus electrification of the whole country. Lenin's words stand 10 feet high atop buildings and dams, and that spirit still guides his successors in party and government.

They are turning, however, toward nuclear power for electricity. They are experimenting with a dual plant that should be of interest to American utility companies — a nuclear plant from which the hot cooling water is not returned directly to the river but runs into a smaller plant where its heat is used to make more electricity by steam, and only then, much cooler, goes back into the stream. Thus thermal pollution is cut and a small bonus in electricity is achieved.

From an environmental, not ideological, point of view, they have the advantage of a system where such experiments can be tried without being justified by immediate profit. Those urging more careful use of nature are not answered so often by complaints about the cost factor of curtailing pollution, or by threats of closing plants and thus abolishing jobs.

And yet — and yet. In our two countries where the technocrats entertain polar opposite ideas about politics, they have in common the worship of the bulldozer and the sneer for those who would stand in its way. Here, too, there is a backlash against the environmentalists, against panic about pollution, and a stated confidence that Soviet science is strong enough to solve the problem whenever it becomes really serious — which is not yet. Familiar?

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

Fairfax Administrator's Seat Becoming Hot One Again

The hot seat in Fairfax is warming up again.

The seat — that of the city administrator — has periodically become a hot one since the city established the post in 1965.

It hired David J. Sumbardo to fill the position then. He resigned in 1968.

Eight months later the city council added the city administrator's duties to the chores of City Clerk Frances R. Lestanguet. It fired her as city administrator in August, 1970, and she resigned the city clerk's position three months later.

In firing Mrs. Lestanguet, the council decided it again wanted a "fulltime" administrator and in March 1970 hired Robert E. Crowe.

THE HIRING of Sumbardo, the giving of the post to Mrs. Lestanguet, the taking it away from her, and the hiring of Crowe were — as is the tradition in Fairfax — all by 3-2 votes of the council.

Sumbardo's tenure in the post was a stormy one from the very beginning. It began with Councilman Cornelis van Vliet — who had opposed hiring Sumbardo — resigning from the council the day after the city administrator was hired. (Van Vliet later was elected to the council again and is now mayor.)

Sumbardo's resignation was preceded by talk of merging his job with that of the city engineer, a campaign by some residents to unseat him and —a month before the resignation — a closed meeting with the council to discuss complaints about him.

Mrs. Lestanguet was the central figure in angry charges exchanged between two councilmen prior to her firing. Councilman Frank J. O'Connell said the firing was "vindictively schemed and maneuvered" and suggested Robert R. Souza played a role in the scheme.

Souza, on the other hand, charged that the firing actually came about because Mrs. Lestanguet had let "Frank O'Connell and company . . . draw her into their partisanship."

NOW IT APPEARS that the seat on which Crowe sits is getting hot again.

While he easily survived a vote of confidence last month, with only O'Connell dissenting, the vote may have indicated more support by the council than he actually has.

It followed a stormy exchange earlier in the month between Crowe and Councilman Frank J. Egger. Egger's performance on that night was later characterized by three of his fellow councilmen as "undisciplined behavior." Despite the exchange, Egger joined in the vote of confidence for Crowe.

But Crowe's position can be expected to be among the issues in next month's council election, and the results of the election could decide how strong Crowe's hold on the job is.

The Fairfax council's experience with hiring, firing, attacking, supporting or whatever, the city officials it has hired, is not a bad indication of the way things work in the community.

It might be an example of how marvelously the democratic system provides for change with the times — although "the times" may often be only from week to week.

On the other hand, it might be an example of the failure of democracy to provide unified leadership with the ability to carry on the affairs of a community in an orderly fashion.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Costs Vary In Lawsuits

When one party wins a lawsuit in a civil case, that party is entitled to recover his "costs." This can sometimes be substantial. By no means does it cover all the expenses of litigation. Generally, it is much less expensive to get competent advice that avoids litigation than to have the matter decided by a lawsuit.

Recoverable costs from the losing party include only those "necessarily incurred." Costs merely for convenience in preparing or prosecuting the lawsuit cannot be recovered.

What is a necessary cost?

Filing fees, service of process, expenses of attachment, costs of preserving perishable property attached, premiums on a surety bond necessary to bring the lawsuit, are all recoverable. So are costs for taking and preparing for the pretrial depositions to discover facts before the trial.

Witness fees ($12) for those subpoenaed, plus their mileage costs up to 150 miles can generally be recovered. In many lawsuits the cost of hiring an "expert witness" — a doctor, accountant or engineer — is a big item. Such cost usually is not recoverable unless the court calls for the expert.

If the losing party appeals and loses again, the prevailing party in the appeal is also entitled to costs. This is often a large item because the cost of preparing transcripts and printing briefs can be extensive.

As a rule, you cannot recover fees of an attorney as costs. Special cases involving dissolutions of marriage, probate, or written contracts may include reasonable attorney fees as a recoverable cost.

A big item in a prolonged trial are jury fees and mileage for jurors. If the case goes into prolonged deliberation, cost of food, lodging and other expenses for keeping the jury together are also charged to the losing party.

After judgment, the judgment-creditor is entitled to expenses incurred to enforce his judgment. Costs of havig the sheriff seize assets and sell the debtor's property to carry out the judgment are recoverable — for example, the costs for towing away a car, storing it, and later selling it.

In criminal cases all costs of prosecution are borne by the government.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

U. S. 'Man In Middle' In Struggle Over Cyprus

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

On the strategically important island of Cyprus in the eastern Mediterranean, the United States finds itself in a not unaccustomed role — that of the man in the middle.

That the problem should come to a head almost at the moment the presidential airplane "Spirit of 76" was lifting its wheels for his historic trip to China was coincidental.

Perhaps not so coincidental was notice from the Russians that in any dealings regarding the eastern Mediterranean they also were a power to be considered.

BASICALLY THE PROBLEM was an old one — the relationship between approximately 600,000 Greek Cypriots and 120,000 Turkish Cypriots.

It had been a recurring one for more than a decade, endangering U.S.-Turkish and U.S.-Greek relations, and NATO's eastern Mediterranean arm.

On the island iteslf intrigue and potential violence swirled around two principal figures, both prominent in its history since Britain, Turkey and Greece guaranteed Cypriot independence in 1959.

They were the black bearded president of Cypress, Archbishop Makarios, one-time champion of Enosis, Union with Greece, but more lately of a neutral, independent Cyprus and Gen. George Grivas, who led the Cypriot underground to expel Britain and now is the leader of an underground movement to expel Makarios.

THE PRESENT situation arose from two circumstances.

—The U.S. move to establish a Sixth Fleet base in Greece.

—A decision by the Greek colonels that this was the time to rid themselves of Makarios and thus to facilitate agreement between the feuding Greek and Turkish factions and, in a larger picture, between Greece and Turkey, the eastern Mediterranean allies.

To the first the Russians reacted strongly, warning against the establishment of a permanent American naval toehold in the Balkans.

To the second Makarios refused to react as expected.

IT IS NOTEWORTHY that the Athens government blamed the United States for the failure of its plan, while the Arabs in Moscow accused the United States of putting Greece up to it.

Only Makarios praised the American role, saying it had operated discreetly to cool things down.

New talks to attempt a settlement of the Greek-Turkish Cypriot dispute are scheduled.

Pressure on Makarios to ease his adamant stand against granting concessions to the Turkish minority could lead him to appeal to the Russians or to grant them special naval rights on Cyprus.

A weak link in the Russian are running from the Black Sea to the Indian Ocean is the narrow Bosphorus. A U.S. base in Greece would pose a potential new threat to this link.

Pie Hit Becomes Marriage Hit

VASSAR, Kan. (UPI)—Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Wendland didn't quite hit off when they first met.

Mrs. Wendland says she hit her future husband in the face with a pie "because he was so cantankerous."

Mrs. Wendland, 91, and her 94-year-old husband celebrated their 71st wedding anniversary Sunday.

FROM THE PAGES OF HISTORY

Period gowns of the nation's First Ladies were shown to an overflow audience Saturday at "The Inaugural Story and Champagne Gala" held at Peacock Gap Country Club. Style changes spanning nearly two centuries (from left): Mrs. Vern Gil as Martha Washington, Mrs. Thomas Reed as Jacqueline (Kennedy) Onassis, Mrs. Rodgers Broomhead as Abigail Fillmore and Mrs. William Bagley as Elizabeth Monroe. The dirndl effect of the pink floral brocade Washington gown is created by a wooden saddle attached underneath. Stark, elegant lines of the Kennedy gown and cape were a striking contrast to the bustle and train in embroidered pink satin of Mrs. Fillmore, while the printed silk redingote of Mrs. Monroe featured appliqued scrolls of brocade. Hairstyles also matched those of the former first ladies.

Tips For Safety As You Drive

A brochure, "Lady Beware," produced recently by the Los Angeles Police Department, gives tips for personal safety when driving.

According to the brochure, women driving alone at night should travel on well-lighted busy streets, whenever practical, keep windows rolled up and doors locked.

Do not leave your purse on the seat. Put it in the glove compartment or on the floor opposite you. Your purse can lure a criminal to your car.

KEEP YOUR car in gear while halted at traffic lights and stop signs. If your safety is threatened, hold down on the horn and drive away as soon as possible.

If you believe you are being followed by another car, do not drive into your driveway. Should another car attempt to force you to the side of the road, do not pull over. In both instances obtain the license number and write it down along with any description; then continue to a police station or open business. Report the incident to the police.

Should your car become disabled in an isolated area, raise the hood and sit inside with the doors locked and the windows up until help arrives. When traveling alone you should not stop to aid disabled motorists.

LOCK YOUR car whenever you leave it to safeguard property and prevent a criminal from entering the car.

Upon arriving at home, keep the headlights on until the garage is opened, the car is parked and the front door is unlocked.

At Age 61, She's Planning A Whole New Way Of Life

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Nina Delehoy is leaving this week for Mallorca, Spain, where she will attend the transcendental meditation teacher training program conducted by the famed Maharishi Mahesh Yoga.

At the age of 61, when most people are thinking about retirement, Mrs. Delehoy is changing vocations and planning a new way of life. She has worked in photography studios most of her life, retouching and coloring photographs, and since she and her husband, Lloyd, came to Mill Valley in 1959 they have been investing in Marin real estate.

"There are presently 100,000 people practicing transcendental meditation in this country and more than 1,000 in Marin County," Nina said in an interview in her former home in Mill Valley. The home is now the center for Transcendental Meditation Society activities in Marin.

So impressed were the Delehoys with the work of the society that they made their large house at 254 Throckmorton Avenue available for a center, and Lloyd Delehoy is adding another room to the house in order to keep pace with the increasing demand for instruction. Meanwhile the Delehoys are living in a smaller cottage in the rear ot the same property.

THE FAMILY became interested in meditation after their son Stanley heard the Maharishi speak at the Harvard University Law School Forum four years ago. Stanley was later initiated into the movement in Berkeley.

"He took courses with the Maharishi in Squaw Valley, Maine and at Humboldt State College," his mother said, "and became a teacher of transcendental meditation after a two and one-half month teacher training program with the Maharishi in Estes Park, Colo., in 1970. He is presently coordinating society activities in Marin and attending Sonoma State College.

"It was seeing the big improvement in Stanley — he was so much more outgoing and able to communicate with people after this training — that aroused my interest," Nina continued, "and my husband and I went to Squaw Valley to hear the Maharishi.

"We were very much impressed, and last August took a course under him at Humboldt State College in Arcata. What especially interested my husband was seeing how young people spontaneously lost interest in drugs as a result of practicing transcendental meditation and began to direct their energy into more productive channels. He has been practicing it for a year and a half now."

Their other son, Charles, also became a teacher after taking the course with his brother under the Maharishi at Estes Park in 1970.

"Charles has a master's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of California and worked with Northrup Aircraft in Ventura on the Apollo Missile project," his mother said.

"He coordinated activities of the society in Marin on a full-time basis for a year and is now with the Maharishi in Mallorca participating in an advanced teacher training course, together with his wife Kathryn Ann."

Asked to explain the essential nature of the transcendental meditation movement, Nina emphasized that it it not a religion or a philosophy, but a simple technique for quieting the body and mind and tapping the deepest sources of energy and intelligence of an individual.

"IT IS useful," she said, "to people of all cultural and religious backgrounds."

It is not a withdrawal from reality leading to inactivity, as so many people suppose, Nina pointed out, but a method of reaching the highest state of awareness. The whole purpose of practicing the technique is through deep relaxation to achieve more energy and become more active, she said.

She told of three states of consciousness — waking, dreaming and deep sleep. A fourth, deeper and transcending all of these — this is the origin of the word 'transcendental' — is mediation, she said.

Scientific studies at universities, she noted, have proved that the state of meditation has unique physiological characteristics, some of which can reduce stress-caused and related diseases.

Nina said the technique of transcendental meditation is easy to learn.

She said that the young people of the Mill Valley center, including Cathy Hanna and Christopher Hall, who operate the center, are available for free introductory lectures at women's clubs and other groups and for what they call "living room lectures." These are for groups of from 10 to 15 persons who arrange to meet at someone's home.

LECTURES ARE also given at the center at announced times. The next one will be Thursday at 8 p.m.

"My special interest," Nina said, "and my husband's too, is to teach the technique to people of our age in the county. So many people fall apart after they retire. When activity lessens and they don't have inner stability and harmony, they are lost."

MRS. LLOYD DELEHOY
To study with Maharishi

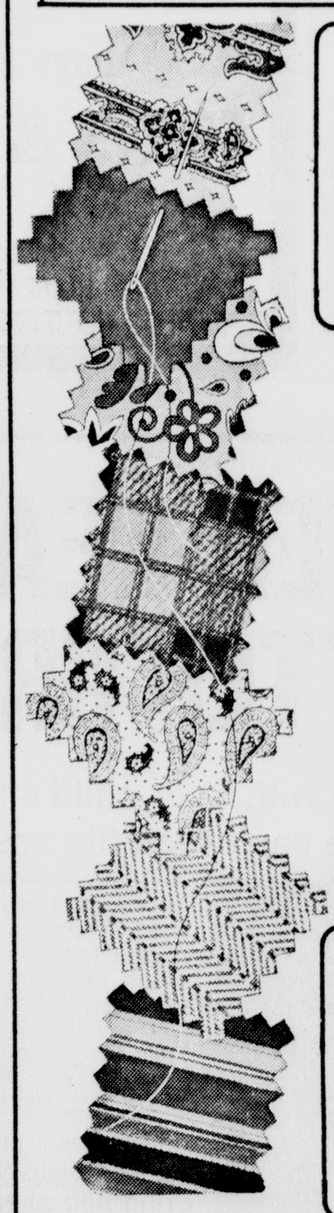

Nina is resigning from her present position with the Klepsch Color Photography in San Rafael and will devote full time to teaching transcendental meditation when she returns after completing the course in Mallorca in June.

"We have spent our recent years investing in real estate," she said, "but transcendental meditation is the best investment we've ever made. And the nice thing is it'll never depreciate. We find the technique results in an inner peace and strength which makes all aspects of our life more productive and enjoyable.

"I look to this movement as our hope for establishing world peace and harmony by establishing peace and harmony in the individual first."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

His Lover Wants To Have A Little Chat With His Wife

DEAR HELEN:

I'm young, attractive and divorced for seven years. I work for a company where there's little opportunity to meet young single men, and I avoided the married ones, until two years ago, when I began a wonderful relationship with an executive who said he didn't love his wife, but only stayed with her out of loyalty or maybe pity.

A few months ago he broke up with me, saying his wife had found out about us. After that he gave me several nice gifts, and once or twice (when he had been drinking) he came to my apartment. Not recently, though.

I still feel very emotional about him. He's terribly attractive, doesn't show his age (17 years older than me), and has charmed all the women in our organization with his marvelous personality. Besides, he's my best (perhaps last) chance.

Here is my question, Helen: Why should three of us be miserable (me, his wife and him) when two of us could be so very happy, if his wife would just accept our love and bow out? For this reason, I want to tell her about the gifts and visits — so that she'll know he isn't "over" me and never will be. Surely when she learns about us "the second time around," she'll throw him out and he'll have no other place to come but to me.

A mutual friend told me that before this man met me, he and his wife seemed the most contented of couples, and he would never leave her because of his business and social affiliations in our small town. However, if she left him, he'd have no choice. Don't you think I'd be wise to have a talk with her? — HOPING

DEAR HOPING:

No. Face it, you were an interlude, possibly one of several.

"Other women" seldom win husbands via chats with their wives. Even if you succeeded in causing trouble (your story is more apt to bring on pitying smiles from a woman who knows her man all too well), you'd lose the campaign. Do you really think a man would return to a good-time girl whose big mouth upset his business and social life? H.

DEAR HELEN:

Being six months pregnant, I took the only job I could find — I'm a telephone solicitor for a cemetery. When I call people, they are rude and insulting, and I can barely finish my speech before they hang up on me.

I know this is a tough subject, buy why can't they politely say they aren't interested? Does anyone have a good word to say about phone solicitors? — MRS. K.

DEAR MRS. K.:

The word most people have for phone solicitors is good . . . bye. Sorry I can't be more sympathetic, but that's my word for them, too. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I love my gentleman friend very much but every time we're along in his apartment or mine, he ends up raping me. I don't really mind but wish I could talk to him more. — HELP?

DEAR HELP:

Now I've heard everything: rape between two consenting adults. You've got your definitions scrambled, friend. Maybe you should try communicating by telephone? — H.

DEAR HLEEN:

These moderns who say they'll love together but not marry because the license ruins the relationship: How can a slip of paper ruin anything? Maybe they're just afraid of community property splits or alimony — or the high cost of divorce lawyers . . . or of really committing themselves. — FOR MARRIAGE

Settlement Costs —Report Has Tips

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — If you are planning to buy or sell a house, you might save considerable money and heartache by taking some tips from a report on settlement costs just published by the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Veterans Administration.

The 200-page document was presented to a House subcommittee on Feb. 22 by HUD Secretary George Romney. It is the first comprehensive survey of so-called settlement costs, those miscellaneous charges and fees that must be paid at the time title to a house changes hands.

The study was ordered by Congress in 1970 because of a wave of complaints about the increasing size and frequency of such costs. Many persons who could otherwise afford to buy a house have had to change plans at the last moment because they could not pay for all the closing costs involved.

Before the study was made, there were many hints that it would find a lot of unnecessary and unreasonable charges. That prediction has come true.

IN BRIEF, the report concludes that settlement costs are "unreasonably high" and that the causes include gross inefficiency in the business plus "an eleborate system of referral fees, kickbacks or commissions."

Costs were found to vary widely not only from state to state but also within the same metropolitan area. Average settlement costs for a $20,000 house were found to range from a high of $4,442 in Alaska to a low of $1,082 in South Dakota.

According to the report, settlement charges "often" are based on factors "unrelated to the cost of providing the services." Fixed fees of lawyer and real estate groups, it says, "often do not reflect the actual work done and tend to increase settlement costs."

Yet, adds the report, the buyer rarely has an opportunity to choose who will provide settlement services for him. He is "often" led to believe or is required to deal with a particular source for such services.

Both the federal government and states are urged to institute reforms to give buyers fairer treatment. But the report then casts doubt about how effective such reforms may be.

For example, it suggests that both HUD and VA set limits on all fees under their jurisdiction except "points." Yet it admits that the limits could be circumvented by increased "points." A point is one per cent of the price.

HELP FROM the states may also be limited. The report calls present state regulation "largely ineffective."

One of the main problems, says the report, is that buyers are not usually aware of their rights or powers, limited though they are, to bargain over some costs. Unfortunately, many lawyers are too tied to the system to show a buyer all the ways to save money on fees.

The best piece of advice in the report, though not spelled out, is to get a lawyer you can trust, one without any connection with the seller. More specifically, the report urges that the lawyer be paid by the hour rather than a fixed percentage of the sales price.

It also urges the buyer to check the title insurance to see if it protects only the seller.

"It is essential," says the report, "that the borrower be informed of his opportunity to purchase his own coverage at closing."

Reductions in title insurance costs are often available for various reasons but may not be obtained without inquiry.

Camp Counselor Interviews Slated

Marin Optometric Group Elects A New President

Mrs. Gerald Belanger has been elected president of the Marin County Optometric Auxiliary.

A native of Newport Beach, Charneth Belanger received a degree in sociology at the University of California at Los Angeles and she has been a member of the Marin Auxiliary for the nine years she has lived in Marin. She and her husband live in Mill Valley with their two daughters, Denise, 3, and Bonnie, 18 months.

The new president enjoys piloting a plane as well as sewing and cooking.

She said the auxiliary helps focus attention of the community on god vision and the need to protect good vision. The auxiliary plans to distribute vision literature and films to the public, to hospitals and to school libraries. This month, "Save Your Vision Month," the group is distributing "Eye Opener" bookmarks throughout the county. The auxiliary also assists in vision screening programs.

Other new officers are Mmes. Bernard Faibish, secretary-treasurer; Howard Levenson, public information chairman, and Leo Becnel, historian.

Be Careful To Check The Size; Varies Sometimes

When shopping for dresses keep in mind that a size 10 under one label may approximate a size eight in another. Different manufacturers have different ways of sizing their products.

And you? You may be two sizes instead of one. You may be narrow at the top and broader at the bottom. For that reason, don't ask for what's your size when buying a dress, says the International Ladies Garment Worker's Union. "Ask to be fitted," is the advice.

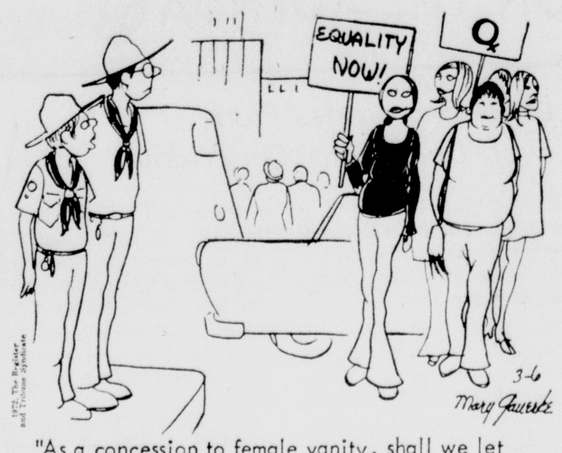

Buffet Dinner Is Announed

Marin Homeowners' Notebook

Does Your Home Have a Secret Entrance?

A home anywhere in Marin County might have several hidden entrances and some very unwanted guests. Termites!

Mud tubes like these are built by subterranean termites to sneak into Marin's nicest homes. They invite themselves into both new and old homes. And contrary to popular belief, they love dining at homes on concrete-slab floors (especially with radiant heat).

Once inside, the termites eat their unsuspecting hosts out of house and home. Literally.

Termites eat wood. And since these extremely social insects live in giant nests with up to 250,000 relatives, having them up to dinner can be a very expensive proposition.

The termite workers shuttle up and down constantly, carrying food back to the nest. But they are masters at keeping their activity hidden. They work inside of walls and floors, then span open spaces with mud tubes. So a considerable portion of your house can be out to lunch before you know it!

Every homeowner in Marin should check regularly for termite mud tubes around his foundation, post footings, garage, fences, and particularly, the hot water heater and furnace. If tubes are found, call Hinkley & Gordon immediately.

Hinkley & Gordon is a state-licensed structural pest control company. For two generations, we've provided Marin's most expert and thorough pest control services.

For more information about Marin County's destructive pests, just call the Hinkley & Gordon office. We'll mail you our free Marin Home Care Calendar. It shows when and how to detect pest problems. How to avoid many of them. And what kinds of professional services are available to help you.

'Marin Opera Action' Has A New Chairman

Mrs. John C. Alexander of Sausalito is the new chairman of Marin Opera Action, the local chapter of San Francisco Opera Action, whicp also has chapters in the East Bay, Napa, the Peninsula, San Francisco and Sonoma County.

Purpose of the opera action groups is to promote interest in opera, particularly the San Francisco Opera and its three branches — the fall season, spring opera, and the young traveling arm, Western Opera Theater.

Members in Marin present previews of forthcoming operas, work back-stage at the Opera House, entertain spouses of visiting opera stars, publicize, promote and sell tickets for operas.

"Marin's group is very small with only 35 women members," Ruth Alexander said, "but all are active, and anyone who wants to work for opera is welcome. We are especially interested in offering education about opera and encouragement of interest in the art form."

Mrs. Alexander has been a member for four years. She also belongs to the Sausalito Woman's Club, Marin Society of Artists and Kappa Alpha Theta Alumnae of Marin County. She does fashion show commentating and said she especially enjoys doing the commentating for antique fashion collections.

MRS. JOHN C. ALEXANDER
Opera booster

Ruth Alexander is the founder and chairman of the Marin County Watercolor Society, an informal club for artists who enjoy painting watercolor landscapes outdoors. She chooses several painting sites each month and sends a newsletter to approximately 100 local painters, who meet for group painting sessions. The newsletter also offers news of local watercolors workshops, lectures, exhibits and painting trips.

A native of Missouri, Mrs. Alexander was reared in Topeka, Kan. She attended Washburn University in Topeka and has lived in Marin for 20 years.

Marin Opera Action's plans for the fall opera season will be made March 20 at a meeting at the home of the co-chairman, Mrs. Ellis Stephens, in Ross.

Other officers are Mmes. Edmond C. Ward, treasurer; J. J. Graves Jr. secretary; and committee chairmen are Mmes. David Dixon, libretto service; Donald Blinco, publicity; Carlos Fowler, tickets; Nancy Downey, hostesses; and Valerie Whann, membership.

Lib Groups Open House Wednesday

Women's liberation groups in Marin will hold an open house at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday for all women interested in the movement to discuss Marin programs and resources.

The open house also will serve to bring women interested in the movement together to learn about what is offered in Marin County.

Representatives will be on hand from the Marin Chapter of the National Organization for Women, to Marin Women's Health Committee, San Francisco Women's Liberation, unaffiliated Marin consciousness-raising groups, and the committee for a Marin women's center.

The open house will be at 25 Corte Madera Avenue, Corte Madera. Dr. Roberta Mohit of Belvedere is organizing the evening.

Over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition
HERE'S HEALTH!
By JUNE EMBURY

Protein means to "come first" and you better put it "first" in your dietary habits if you want to be vital and fit! But look out for the quality of the protein foods you eat! Research has shown that heat alters the quality of proteins considerably!

Let's look what happens to milk when it is pasteurized: Most of the enzymes are destroyed, making milk harder to digest, the biological nature of the protein is altered, so it is less valuable for body building and repairs, the vitamins and minerals are damaged also, the metabolic loss of calcium can run up to 50%

Yet you may ask "is raw mild safe to drink"? The answer is yes, state laws require that certified raw milk is extensively tested so that it is free from harmful bacteria.

We have a leaflet in the store, explaining this more fully, please come in and ask for your copy!

MUSIC REVIEW

An Incredible Concert By Ellington At Vets Building

By IRA KAMIN

Duke Ellington and his 15-piece orchestra gave an incredible concert last night in the Veterans Memorial Building. A well dressed, urban looking audience that filled every seat in the house heard two and a half hours of Ellington music, ranging from tonal poems to 1930s swing standards.

Ellington's music is very complex. It's not merely bop or dance music. Overtones of symphonic seriousness pierce the air. Ellington may go down in history as the only man who performed symphonies in taverns.

The first half of last night's concert was filled with selections of old and recent suites Ellington has composed. Those in the audience who had come for pure nostalgia had to wait for the second half of the concert.

After an opening of "C-Jam Blues," featuring solos by Harry Carney, Money Johnson and Paul Gonsalves, Ellington walked briskly to his piano. The 74-year-old genius of American music looked 20 years younger than his age. And he played the piano, conducted the orchestra and hosted the audience with a wit and grace and ease that makes the aging process seem a painless happening.

He began "Creole Love Call," a sweet ballad, on piano and was joined by a trio of clarinets, featuring Carney on bass clarinet. A feature characteristic of Ellington music is the offbeat concoction of horns he uses to state a theme. Two clarinets and trombone, or trumpet, saxophone and bass trombone will play a phase while the rest of the orchestra plays a counter theme or accents the first statement. These mixtures create tremendous contrasts in tone and give the audience a well of surprises to drink from.

The horn players were superb last night. Gonsalves played his breathy, moody tenor sax solos on "In a Sentimental Mood" and "Rockin n' Rhythm." Carney played baritone sax solos on many numbers, but thrilld the audience with a version of "Sophisticated Lady." Harold Minerva, Harold Ashby and Norris Turney completed the sax section. And on one number they were joined by a young woman from the audience.

The girl's name is Lisa Pollard, Ellington invited her to play saxophone on a fast blues. She took a solo and then joined the section for an ensemble improvisation where everyone played a different solo at the same time.

This kind of thing marks the spontaneity and freshness that mekes Ellington unique. Just as Paul Cezanne is considered the father of modern painting, so Ellington is the father of modern jazz. His near cacophony and dissonance was an influence on Thelonius Monk, Charles Mingus, the late John Coltrane, Miles Davis and hundreds of rock musicians who use electronic gadgets to get the same effects Ellington's musicians get with their horns.

Trumpet player Johhny Coles and trombonists Mitchell Woods, Chuck Conner and Malcolm Taylor squeeze, push, pull, twist, moan and scream their notes out, making their instruments extensions of themselves.

In the first half, the orchestra played part of a suite called "Afro-Eurasian Eclipse," and two movements of a new suite called "Togo Brava." They closed the first hour and a half with a tone poem to Harlem, which Ellington conducted.

As he has done at every concert, Ellington thanked the audience for being "so sweet, so generous, so beautiful," He said, "I want you to know that the kids in the band (many are sixty) love you madly."

The audience included S.I. Hayakawa, president of San Francisco State College, and master sarod musician Ali Akbar Khan.

For the second half of the show, Ellington changed from a blue suit and blue bow tie to a white suit and black shirt.

He played medleys of old Ellington classics like "Don't Get Aound Much Anymore," "Mood Indigo," "I Let A Song Go Out Of My Heart" and "Who Can Ask For Anything More."

Tony Wilkins handled the vocals on "In My Solitude" and "Don't Mean A Thing If It Ain't Got That Swing."

Ellington conveys a great range of emotions through his music, from subtle wit to melancholy. He ended his concert with a taste of both.

Money Johnson led to the conclusion with an imitation of Louis Armstrong doing "Hello Dolly." At the end of this gaiety, the band got8up to the front of the stage, and led by Ellington, danced, blew their horns and clowned as if it were New Years Eve in Harlem in 1940. An attractive blond wearing high white boots ventured out and twisted with Harold Minerva.

After a young man ran onto the stage with a bouquet of flowers for Ellington, things quieted down a bit.

"I'd like to end with a short statement," Ellington said. And he played a beautiful composition by the late Billy Strayhorn.

Ellington was accompanied with perfection, as he was all evening, by bassist Joe Benjamin and drummer Rufus Jones.

Ellington is an unforgettable experience. f you missed him this time around, don't next time.

Two Men Die In Stolen Plane

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI) —Two young men were killed Sunday in the crash of a single engine plane that police said they apparently stole.

The plane struck power lines moments after a predawn takeoff from College Park Airport and crashed in a street 25 feet from a sorority house at the University of Maryland. It burned within minutes.

"Fortunately it came down at an intersection and didn't hit any homes," a police spokesman said.

The victims were identified as Gregory Morrison, 21, of Hillside Heights, Md., and his nephew, Steven Morrison, 20, Silver Spring, Md.

Two other men, identified by police as Gary Morrison and Edward Morrison, brothers of the victims, witnessed the crash and were treated at Prince Georges County hospital for shock.

Nixon Won't Back Busing Amendment

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon will not endorse a constitutional amendment to end busing, it was learned today. Instead, he probably will ask Congress for a moratorium on new court-ordered busing, and propose legislation to ensure quality education for every school child.

The Cabinet-level committee which Nixon asked for a policy recommendation on the forced busing issue was expected to offer its advice soon, possibly this week. Nixon called the panel to the White House today, along with top black officials within the administration, to discuss the question.

But sources close to the committee said this much was clear: Nixon will not choose the constitutional amendment route. Not only have the committee members —former attorney general John N. Mitchell; Elliot L. Richardson secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; and Budget Director George P. Shultz — publicly opposed that route, but the amendment idea still lacks the two-thirds support it would need to clear the House and Senate.

The cabinet committee plans to recommend, and Nixon likely will request, that legislation be offered to attack the problem by eliminating educational inequities which have prompted courts to order black children and whites bused to other schools.

Colmer Leaving House At 82

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., who has used his chairmanship of the House Rules Committee as a power base for House conservatives, today announced his retirement.

His decision not to seek reelection is expected to end an era during which the powerful committee often opposed liberal Democratic administration policies, and sometimes fought the House leadership itself.

"There must be an end to all things, including my service in the Congress," said Colmer, 82, who will complete his 20th House term next January. "Moreover, after nearly 40 years I desire to spend some time with my family."

Colmer's probable successor would be Rep. Ray J. Madden, D-Ind., a liberal who likely would restore the committee to its historic role as an arm of House majority leadership policy.

The children's play "St. George and the Dragon" will be presented by the drama club of West Novato School Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Corte Madera Regional Library.

Players in the cast include Linda Casteens, Chuck Almgrem, Mona Calhoon, Kent Hilen, Mike Sorenson, Leslie Guth, Andy Kirchner, May Maryanne Moeller, Mark Hansen and David Edge.

The 400-year-old play will be directed by Scott Wright, resource teacher at the Novato school. The performers — fourth, fifth and sixth graders — previously have staged the play in Santa Rosa, and the new Marin County Library in Novato.

MUSIC REVIEW

New Ensemble's Impressive Debut

By ROBERT M. NESS

Twentieth Century compositions employing various instrumental combinations made up last night's impressive debut by the New Musical Offericg Ensemble given to about 150 persons at the Sausalito Art Center.

A trio for flute, viola, and cello by French neo-classic composer Albert Roussel opened the program. Flutist Patrick Hurtado, violist Mary Jo Ahlbarn, and cellist David Kadaroch performed this work with exceptional facility. Kadaroch's cello passages in the second movement were particularly beautiful.

Portions of Stravinsky's "The Soldiers Story" were transcribed into a suite for violin, clarinet, and piano by the composer. Alone, it is an admirable work, but disappointing when compared to the original.

The unusual and colorful groupings of instruments in the original version are so striking and functional that they actually become an organic part of the work. In this arrangement, the instrument changes lessened the impact of the work even though violinist Michael Gerling, clarinetist Patricia Mason, and pianist Marian Winkler performed it with dramatic and vigorous excellence.

One of the highlights of the evening was guitarist Nick Shryock's transcription for clarinet and guitar of Schoenberg's "Sechs Kleine Klavierstucke, Op. 19." Representing Schoenberg's early and more classic nearly atonal works, the "Six Pieces" are concise and intense musical expressions. Shryock's transcription was sensible and consistent to the characteristics of the work and the instruments.

Following an exciting neo-romantic "Sonatina Madrigal" by Bohuslav Martinu for flute, violin, and piano, George Cleve, conductor and musical advisor of the group, directed the final and most impressive work of the evening.

Ravel's "Introduction and Allegro" for solo harp, flute, clarinet, and string quartet is an elegant lyrical work reminiscent of his String Quartet in F. Violinist Carol Tomlinson, from Terra Linda High School, joined Gerling, Madaroch, and Miss Ahlbarn to complete the string quartet. The virtuosic harp solo was played by Carla Wong.

Harp playing is a visual as well as aural experience. The graceful and dramatic movements of the harpist add a great deal to the total performance. Miss Wong's playing was exquisite in both respects. With its rich harmonic fabric and misty textures, this work was an exhibition of expressive ensemble playing.

Though the concert was diversified and interesting, two and a half hours was too long — especially considering the uncomfortable seats and terrible acoustics of this hall.

The program, dealing with music all from the same period, should have indicated the composition dates along with the composer dates. Also, it would have helped if tha individual movements were listed.

Boy, 2, Is Run Over — Badly Hurt

A 2-year-old Novato boy was reported in serious condition today in the intensive care unit at Marin General Hospital with injuries received when he was run over yesterday in a neighbor's driveway, hospital authorities reported.

Mathew Edward Mengarelli of 255 Corte Del Cerro, was run over by a car driven by John Paul Shine of 240 Corte Del Cerro about 9:50 a.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

Patrolmen said Shine was going shopping and Michael Mengarelli, Mathew's older brother, asked to go with him. Michael got into the car after getting his parent's permission to go. Shine told patrolmen that he heard two bumps and stopped his car, not knowing that Mathew was on his tricycle behind him.

The car stopped on Mathew's body and Shine drove it forward off the boy, patrolmen reported. Mathew is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Mengarelli.

Horses Back In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Horse-mounted policemen return to the downtown business district today after an absence of 11 years.

The City's mounted police unit was disbanded in 1951, and it made Frank L. Risso "very sad."

"Now that I'm mayor, I have the power to bring them back," said Rizzo, who formerly was police commissioner.

Burglars Hit Two Businesses

Two San Rafael businesses have been victims of burglars, police reported yesterday.

Villa Rafael Cocktail lounge at 1600 Lincoln Avenue, lost $450 in cash sometime between 2:30 a.m. and 7:30 a.m. Saturday, police reported.

According to police, someone must have hidden in the building when it was closed, taken the money and left via a side door, leaving it unlocked.

Someone broke a $350 window at Creative Merchandisers at 285 Jacoby Street sometimes between 6 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday, police reported. The burglar entered the broken window and took $15 cash and $65 worth of merchandise, according to police.

Gate Toll-Takers: An Inside Look

By MARC NURRE

To a tourist, he's got the same job as Saint Peter, only he works at a different gate.

To a commuter, he's just that guy in khaki with his hand out every morning — a turning point in the traffic flow and a signal that the office, and the day's second cup of coffee, are almost at hand.

To little kids, he ranks somewhere between a fireman and a policeman. He's the man who smiles and takes the quarters mommy dug out of her purse and handed over while weaving along in the southbound lanes.

He and 47 others — toll takers at the Golden Gate Bridge — are some of these things to about 90,000 cars per day at this time of year and even more during the summer months. Many of these cars, about 16,000 of them, make it through the toll plaza during one hectic three-hour period between six and nine o'clock on weekday mornings.

The crunch is repeated in the evening starting at 4 o'clock, but the toll takers don't bother with northbound traffic.

It's a hand-to-hand operation, the same in principle as the corner grocery store, but the hands took in about $23,500 during an average 24-hour period in February.

Well, usually it's hand to hand. But toll taker Donald Darrington remembers the time when a car rolled up, the window rolled down and a hairy-toed bare foot, 50 cents clutched tetween digits, poked out at him.

"I didn't take the money," said Darrington, who has spent 13 years as a toll taker. "I made him hand it to me."

Aside from incidents like that, "All in all, it's not too bad a job," he said. There are things he looks for. "I enjoy the little kids paying, more than the adults," he said. "At least if you say something to them, they appreciate it."

But between the bright moments, the job is routine — take the dollar bill, hand back 50c in change, hit the buzzer, wait for the next car, take the $5 bill, hand back the $4.50 change already made up and waiting. Occasionally, the bills are even larger. Darrington showed a $100 bill that he had taken that morning from a man who didn't appear embarrassed at all to ask for $99.50 in change.

Some people, according to Darrington, he gets to know, at least by sight if not by name. Sometimes he runs into them in his off hours: "You'll say hello and they'll look at you like you're nuts," he said with a laugh.

Darrington is a bridge-using commuter himself. He lives with his wife and three children in Petaluma.

Some people, he said, have caught on to the routine that the toll takers use. They stay at one station for three weeks and then move east one lane. "Sometimes, they follow you," he said.

There are three shifts of men which man the toll booths. One runs from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m., the next from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. and the graveyard shift runs from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Graveyard shift toll takers are paid more than their daytime counterparts, and men with most seniority usually choose to work that shift, according to Captain Edward Ashoff, head of bridge toll takers. Men needed to open extra southbound lanes for the morning commute rush serve also as relief men during lunch and rest breaks when those extra lanes are opened to northbound traffic later in the day, he said.

Every so often, there's the little shock of seeing a celebrity. "Sterling Hayden used to come through here sometimes;" Darrington remembered. Sometimes Buddy Hackett would drive through, "but they look so different off camera, you know."

Sometimes there is trouble. A woman in a southbound blue Ford, while handing over her toll, told him she thought there was trouble north of the bridge.

Darrington asked the driver of the next car if he had just seen an accident. "Sure did," he said. It was in the northbound lanes near the Waldo grade. Darrington pushed a button in his toll booth and called out, "Hey, Charlie, did you get that accident northbound?"

"Yeah," the answer came back. In a booth on the east side of the toll lanes, sergeants keep watch on the whole bridge span using two television cameras mounted on the underside of the two bridge towers. The cameras can be swiveled to see anywhere along the span, and have zoom lenses to give a close-up view.

Other bridge equipment often causes comment. The little wires sticking up from the road surface just before the toll booths are to dissipate static electricity so toll taker and driver don't get shocks.

The numbers which flash overhead at the toll booths are the numbers of vehicle classification — one, for instance, is a car, seven is a bridge district vehicle which pays no toll. Numbers in between are for trucks which pay by the number of axles.

The job, as Darrington sees it, is all right. "It's not bad, really. You get good people and bad people."

THAT'LL BE FIFTY CENTS — Golden Gate Bridge toll taker Donald Darrington speaks with a driver of one of the 90,000 cars which use the bridge daily. Darrington has spent 13 years on the job, and says he enjoys the work. (Independent-Journal photo by Alfred Arn.)

Police Auction Brings A Lot Of Bargains, Smiles

"Gee, this is nice," said the woman as she picked up the brass-and-wood barometer, thermometer and hygrometer set from the table of items to be auctioned. "I wonder if it works."

"Naw," volunteered the man next to her. "It's broken, look at that spring. You can tell." She put it down and soon her attention shifted to some nearby jewelry.

The man smiled to himself and moved to the other end of the table.

From the middle of the table, a young girl picked up two rabbit pelts and stroked them. Her age and inexperience appeared to give her away — her wish was there for anyone to see. She called over the railing to auctioneer Richard Fontaine, "What would happen if I bid one penny for these and nobody said anything?"

"That wouldn't happen," he answered.

"Do you have a starting price for things?" she asked.

"Yes," he replied.

"How much would it be for these?"

"I couldn't tell you that now," he said. "Wait until the auction starts."

Soon Fontaine called for bidders to take a last look at the 92 items and get ready to begin the annual Mill Valley Police unclaimed property auction.

Most of the property was old — taken in burglaries three and four years ago, advertised, but still unclaimed. Police said they knew who owned some pieces, but the owners have long since collected their insurance and believe they got a better deal with their settlement, so refuse to identify their property.

The crwod of about 75 persons was a little selfconscious at first, but warmed up when the bidding began.

Fontaine, assistant public administrator for Marin County and a veteran of estate auctions, soon made them feel at ease.

"What am I bid for this heat lamp?" he asked, waving it in the face of Mill Valley Police Chief Dan Terzich. He looked at Terzich and grinned. "Right out of the interrogation room, right?" Terzich frowned. The item was quickly sold.

Another lamp was next, and Fontaine kept it up. "This is the backup lamp," he said. Terzich fought to suppress a smile.

The crowd was apparently in the market for useful items, not items to be sold later for a profit. No one felt the need for two men's 14 carat gold wedding rings, so they went for $2 each.

The city took in $551 at the auction. There were many values, including an eight-millimeter, three-lens movie camera for $14, and a sterling silver cup and spoon for $2.

The barometer went for $9, but not to the man who had said it didn't work. He was outbid.

Watches went for as low as $4, gold and jade cuff links for $10; a Smith-Corona adding machine for $36, the most expensive item of the day; a portable television, $28; a wood-and-leather inlaid coffee table, $6.

Bidding on the rabbit skins began at $1 and there were many glances at the girl who had expressed interest before bidding had begun. She said nothing. The auctioneer came down to 50 cents and still she waited before agreeing to pay the price.

Someone else offered a dollar, but her face betrayed no emotion. It was "going, gone" but not "sold" when she upped her bid to $1.50 and finally took the skins. Then came the grin.

Only a few items went for inflated prices, and were the only cause for smiles to several hard-eyed "professionals," who otherwise sat there wrinkling their brows at each item.

Most of the stuff was underpriced. The thieves themselves could have sold it for more.

One Reservation On Countywide Plan

At a special meeting Saturday, the Corte Madera Planning Commission approved the Preliminary Marin Countywide General Plan with one reservation.

The commission asked that the county plan recognize the general plans of municipalities and the influence of towns and cities over their own areas, according to zoning administrator, William G. McBride.

The commission had given the plan a lukewarm reception in December, but accepted it after three to four hours of discussion, McBride said.

The major source of concern in December had been a proposed county planning agency that might have had power to overrule town decisions.

The super agency was scrapped when the City-County Planning Council of Marin approved the plan Jan. 20 as a working guide for developing the state-required final plan.

The planning commission had also worried about the plan to concentrate population along the Highway 101 corridor, but did not oppose the plan on that basis, McBride said.

Another major element of the plan, preservation of West Marin undeveloped, was favored by the commission, McBride said.

In other action, the commission revised application forms for submittals, set a two-week cutoff date for placing items on its agenda and decided to hear board of design recommendations first in an effort to streamline meetings, McBride said.

The commission also recommended updating the town general plan in 1972-73, but McBride predicted the work will cost almost $33,000. The town council refused to budget $20,000 for the work this year feeling the price tag for consultants was too high.

There was no discussion of the housing section of the general plan, which had been placed on the agenda by mistake, McBride said. The housing statement will be discussed March 13, he said.

Printing Needs On Board's List

The printing equipment needs of the Lagunitas School District will be considered at a special meeting of the board at 7:30 p.m. today at the San Geronimo Valley School.

Supt. William E. Johnson will report on the present equipment, how much of it should be replaced and what should be added to district's printing plant.

The trustees will hear a staff report on the music program, discuss replacing Barbara Bloom-quist, part time music teacher who resigned, consider possible changes in administration and the policy on selection of library books.

It will hold a closed meeting to discuss dismissal of teachers next year.

Beban's Committee Request Is Rejected

The presiding judge of Marin Superior Court has refused to order the Marin County Grand Jury to restore a young juror to committees from which he was removed for "outspokenness."

Judge Henry J. Broderick included in his written denial some advice to 23-year-old Richard W. Beban on getting along with his colleagues.

Beban was suspended last October from a committee investigating San Quentin Prison and another one looking into county offices and finances.

The action, in the form of censure by other grand jurors, came after Beban attempted to conduct his own investigation of the Aug. 21 violence at San Quentin and then made charges against prison officials in an underground newspaper.

On Feb. 22, Beban filed a suit in superior court asking a court order restoring him to the two committees, charging he had been suspended because he "is outspoken and has been openly at odds with other members of the grand jury. . ."

In his order denying Beban's request, Judge Broderick wrote that "each grand jury determines its own rules of proceeding which naturally include matters of committee assignments.

"The measure of acceptance accorded any individual engaged in group endeavor is directly related to, and often controlled by the ability of the individual and his willingness and capacity to work in harmony with his colleagues."

He noted that Beban has "adopted the stance of an iconoclast and his outspokenness and 'at oddness' are totally protected by our constitutions. . . But not infrequently the price of iconoclasm is ostracism and neither the nature of man nor these constitutions afford protection from that."

The judge concluded that the grand jury has the right to deprive Beban of his committee assignments and, furthermore, he added, "the courts cannot be called to the assistance of every person at odds with the group in which he is asked to participate."

This year's grand jury, which will serve through June, has been torn by internal squabbles since its inception. Judges last year made an unprecedented effort to include a wider variety of viewpoints on the jury and asked a long list of local groups for nominations.

Leg Broken In Cycle Accident

A San Rafael youth was reported in satisfactory condition at Marin General Hospital today with a fractured right lower leg and a cut forehead suffered in a motorcycle accident about 4:30 p.m. yesterday, according to a hospital spokesman.

No further details on the accident were available. Several other persons were treated at the hospital yesterday, and details were also unavailable on their accidents. They are:

Laura McKay, 18, of San Francisco, injured in a motorcycle accident yesterday about 5:30 p.m. She was treated for deep scrapes of the knee and released.

Kathleen Ricci, 28, of 40 Longwood Drive, San Rafael, injured in an auto accident yesterday about 6:15 p.m. She was treated for muscle strain of the neck and released.

James Harivin, 16, of 413 Hickory Lane, San Rafael, injured in a motorcycle accident. He was treated for a fractured toe and released.

Closed Session On Bolinas Suit

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District board will meet in closed session at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow to discuss employment of an attorney to represent the district in a suit brought by a group of Bolinas businessmen, clerk Helen McKay reported.

The businessmen have filed an action in Marin Superior Court to invalidate new water rates and sewer charges approved by the district last month. The suit also seeks $100,000 in general damages from the district.

Mrs. McKay said the board will reconvene in open session to announce its dacision.

Computer Services Session Slated

Marin Community College District trustees will meet in a closed door session Wednesday at 8 p.m. to get legal counseling on a district contract with the Radio Corporation of America for computer services.

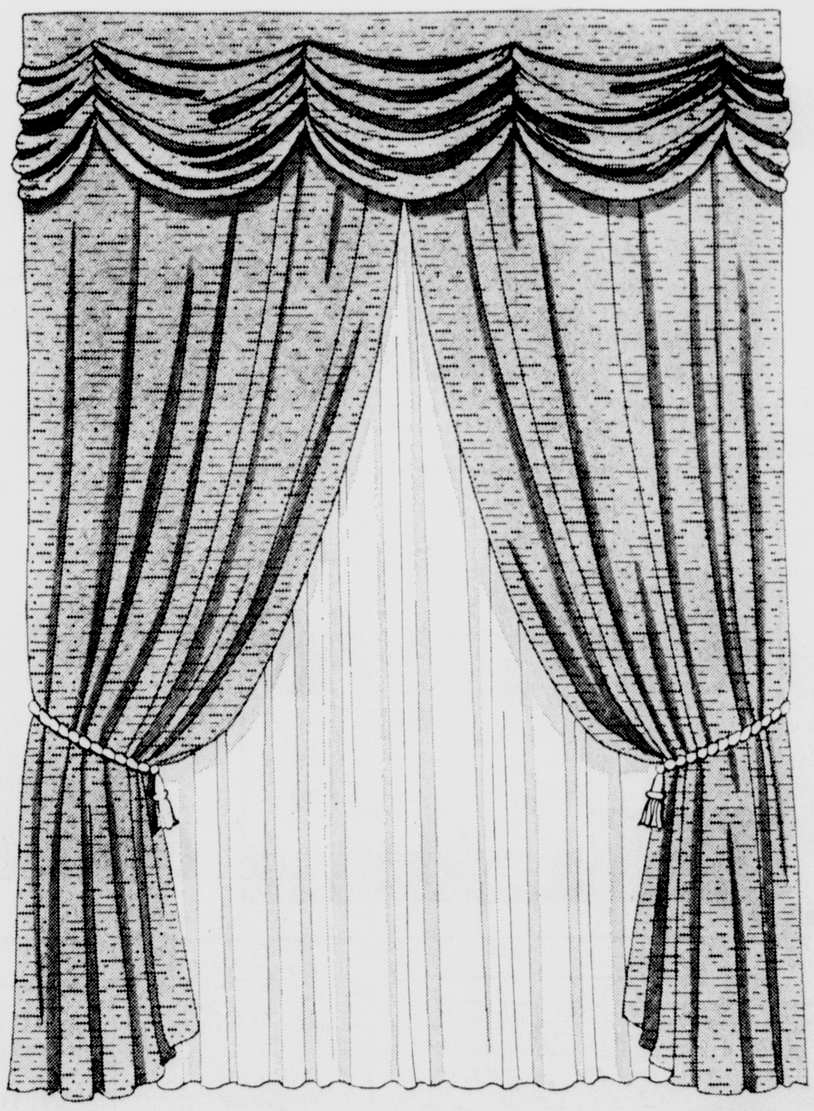

The board will consider a lawsuit against the firm because suppliers may have filed to complete terms of the pact.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Expert Says Why Take A Chance — Play It Perfectly

Los Angeles bridge expert Eddie Kantar is a hard man, but he claims that he's easily pleased. "All I ask is 100 per cent," he says. "Why be satisfied with less?" He refers to the hand shown in the diagram, which you would probably make in actual play even if you slipped a trifle short of perfection. "But why take a chance?" as Kantar would put it.

SMALL DIAMOND

When West opens the deuce of diamonds, you would be tempted to play low from the dummy. You're in fine shape if West has led from the queen; and you have excellent chances even if East turns up with the red lady.

But, as the cards lie, East wins with the queen of diamonds and returns a diamond for West to ruff. Now West returns a spade, and you must put up the ace. You draw trumps and cash the top diamonds, discarding the ten of spades.

You are still safe if you can get a club trick, but you are down one when West turns up with both the ace and queen of clubs.

"Bad luck," you complain. "Bad play," Kantar retorts.

REFUSE FINESSE

Take the first trick with the king of diamonds and draw trumps, discarding a club and a spade from the dummy. Now lead the King of clubs, losing to the ace.

If West returns a diamond, you can afford to play low from dummy. East can win with the queen but cannot afford to lead spades. If East returns a club, dummy's ten sets up. If East returns a diamond, you win with the jack and enter dummy with the ace of spades to discard a loser on the ace of diamonds.

SAME PLAY

The play is much the same if West returns a spade on winning with the ace of clubs. You try a finesse, losing to the king of spades. East's only safe return is a spade to dummy's ace. Now you lead a club to force out the queen, and enter dummy with the ace of diamonds to discard a diamond on the ten of clubs.

It sounds complicated, but it's actually very easy. And very safe.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - 10 3
♥ - K Q J 9 8 7
♦ - J 10 5
♣ - K J.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not quite worth an opening bid of one heart (although some experts would make that bid). Avoid a borderline opening bid on an aceless hand. Players who use "weak two-bids" would open this hand with two hearts.

Plea Date Set In Fraud Case

Mary Kemel, 27, of Sonoma, has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on a misdemeanor charge of attempted credit card fraud and two felony counts of credit card forgery.

She was to plead to the charges today if she was unable to post $1,000 bail. If bail is posted, she will plead Friday.

She was arrested Thursday after allegedly attempting to buy a watch at a San Rafael jewelry store with a stolen credit card.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Story Of Gallbladder Attack: Two Lessons Can Be Learned

A Michigan surgeon tells of a 69-year-old woman, who, 37 years ago, had a gallbladder attack. X-rays taken at the time of the bout confirmed the diagnosis and demonstrated that the structure was inflamed and contained gallstones. Surgery was refused and luckily the woman never had the slightest distress during the ensuing years. The family doctor ho knew of the previous experience convinced her that the gallbladder (even though inactive) should be removed.

THE MAIN reason for his advice was that another gallbladder attack at 69 would be far more serious than the risk attending an operation. Surgery was performed and an early cancer in the wall of the gallbladder was found and removed. Was this intuition, divine guidance, or coincidental?

Two lessons can be learned from this story. First, malignancies of the gallbladder and ducts account for approximately 1 per cent of all cancer deaths in the United States. In other words, it is not a common malignancy. But to date, it has only been found in gallbladders harboring stones. As a result, anyone with these stones is a potential candidate for cancer. This is not the primary reason for surgery, but the remote possibility of cancer later in life remains so long as gallstones are present.

SECOND, AGE is no barrier to this type of surgery. Thousands of senior citizens have gone through this operation with no more discomfort than younger patients. Much depends upon the oldster's physical condition and whether other surgical abnormalities must be corrected at the same time. Aged people have the remarkable ability to tolerate extensive surgical procedures. Physicians are thankful for this because we are seeing more and more people over 69 years of age with surgically correctable gallbladder problems. In one series of cases, patients over 69 constituted in excess of one-tird of the total undergoing gallbladder removal.

NOT ALLOWED TO CRY

M. H. writes: The father of a 6-year-old boy won't permit the youngster to cry or whimper when hurt. Won't this child's personality be warped by having to bottle up his emotions?

REPLY

Not unless the Spartan treatment creates undue anxiety, tension, fear, frustration, or other emotional reactions.

FATLESS MILK

Miss C. writes: Is it better for a 16 year old with a skin problem to drink skim milk rather than whole milk?

REPLY

Yes, Skim milk contains all that's good in milk except the fat. In ye olde days, the king drank the cream and the serfs the skim milk. The king got fat, the serfs remained slim, strong, and healthy.

'BOILS' OVER

H. T. writes: My husband gets boils frequently. Are they contagious?

Yes, provided some of the infected secretions escape from the boil onto the skin of a susceptible person.

Ohio City Recycling Its Garbage

FRANKLIN, Ohio (UPI)—This southwestern Ohio community of 10,000 is "attempting to assume the role of nature" with the world's first garbage disposal and reclamation plant.

The plant is the brainchild of Joe Baxter Jr., inventor, engineer and city councilman, who believes "If you follow nature's plan you can't go wrong."

Baxter, who works at the Black Clawson Co., in nearby Middletown, invented a machine known as the hydrapulper which churns up waste paper into a slurry through the use of water spun at high speed.

Baxter said the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare asked his company to come up with a new idea in solving the problem of solid waste.

The Madison, Ky., native went to work and came up with his paper churner, the heart of the Franklin disposal and recycling plant.

The next stop was Franklin City Council where, with the backing of city manager Bernard Eichholz, the council asked for a federal grant.

The U.S. Bureau of Waste, Management came up with $1.6 million of the $2 million needed while Black Clawson agreed to put up part of the rest and to operate the plant for the 18 month test period.

The garbage that cannot be recycled is destroyed in an incinerator equipped with a bed of hot sand and a temperature of 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit.

"We are attempting to assume the role of nature and utilize everything we can," Baxter said. "If you follow nature's plan you can't go wrong."

The demonstration period ends in August and at that time it will be up to the community to decide if they want to continue the operation.

"Everyone wants to get involved in environmental work, you know —until it bothers them or costs money," Eichholz said.

"That's the decision we have to make here," he added. "We're running out of room, running out of places to shove our waste, and we're running out of time.

"It's time to stop backing up and do something positive."

A tour of the Franklin plant revealed a simple procedure, and so far a relatively inexpensive one, for getting rid of solid wastes.

The garbage is brought to a dumping area and taken by conveyor belt to the paper churner.

The spinning drum removes non-pulpable materials such as glass, metals and plastics. The paper slurry is then run through a graduated series of slotted screens, the last ones with openings of only .020 of an inch.

The fibers are then washed and partially dried before being shipped to paper factories.

Most of the non-recoverable materials such as rubber and textiles are fed into the incinerator.

The bed of hot sand is blown through the incinerator by a 500 horsepower motor at a temperature of 1,500. When the waste material enters the chamber it disappears in a puff of flame.

The incinerator also is used to dispose of liquid industrial wastes. Oils, paints and various chemicals are stored in large tanks, then fed into the incinerator where they are consumed without the threat of air pollution.

The plant has four employees including Baxter, functions eight hours a day and handles about 50 tons of garbage in that period.

The plant has been in operation since May 17 with only minor repairs needed and as a result has a low maintenance cost.

"We expeced maintenance costs to run about one dollar per ton of input," Baxter said. "So far it has amounted to about 16 cents per ton."

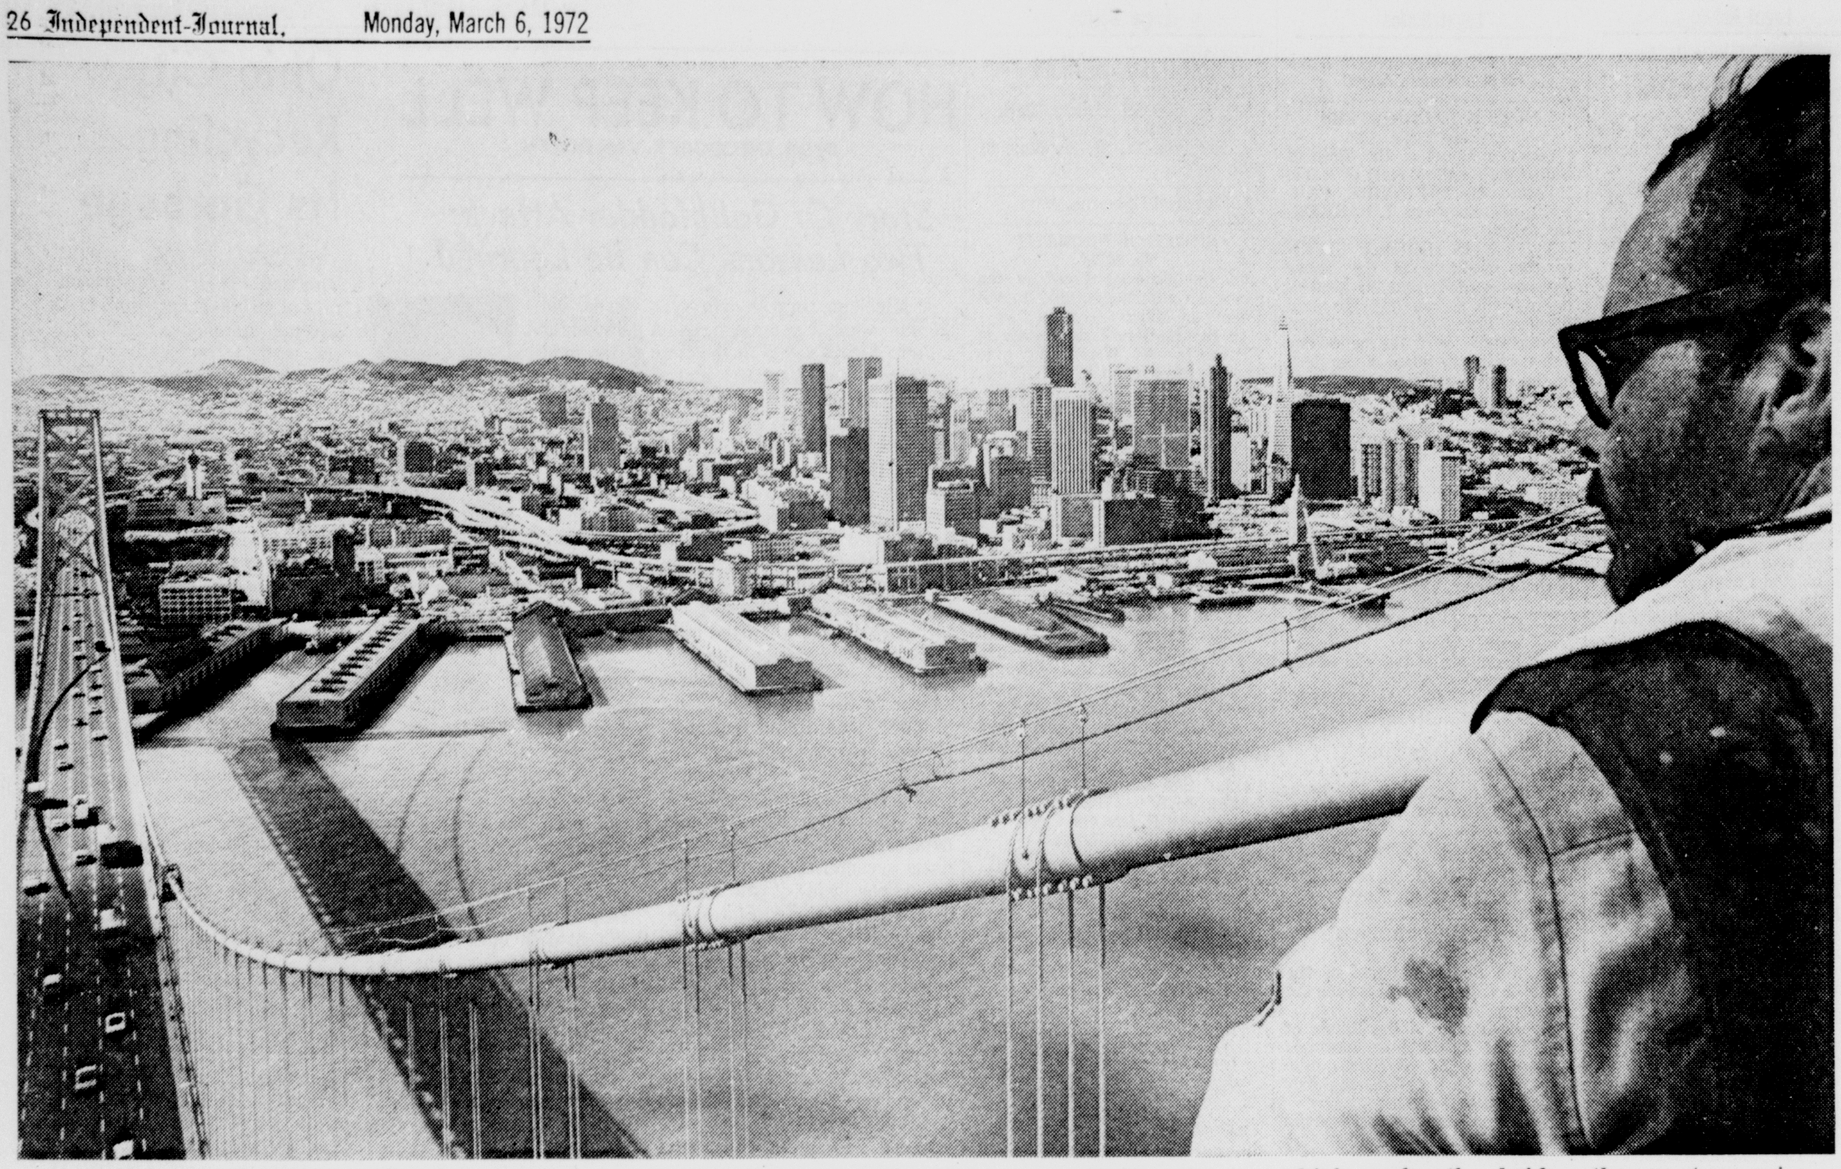

Sabbaticals On Agenda

The San Anselmo School District board, tomorrow night may resolve the question of sabbatical leaves in the district.

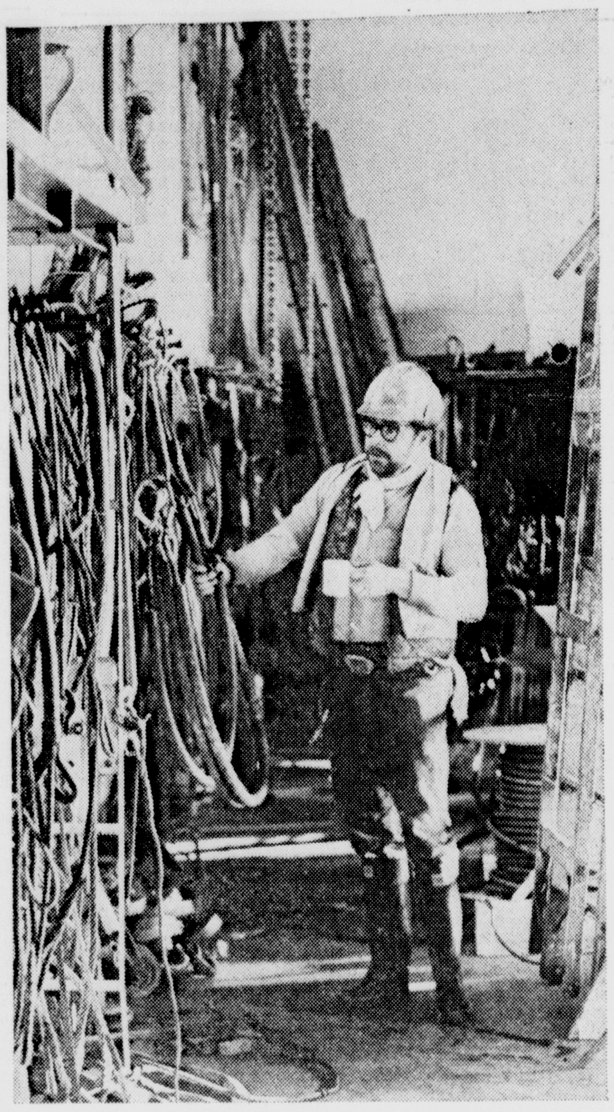

Although the board has approved two sabbaticals, interim superintendant Ivan D. Chappell has recommended rejection of the requests to save money.

He has asked the issue be left open, so the leaves may be granted at a future date if finances improve.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the library of the Red Hill School, 100 Arbor Drive, San Anselmo.

PANORAMIC VIEW — Structural steel painter Brookner W. Brady Jr. of Tamalpais Valley pauses on top of one of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge's enormous towers for a view few see — the skyline of San Francisco from 505 feet above the bay. Brady is one of 60 painters responsible for protecting the 370 acres of metal surface which make the bridge the most massive steel structure in the world. Far below Brady, but still high above the traffic, is a two-man painting platform suspended from the huge main cable.

SAFETY IN THE SHOP — According to Brady, structural steel painters do a lot more than paint. Here he points out some of the safety harnesses that the painters have fashioned for use in their work. Brady said he's never taken a spill in his four and one-half years as a painter for the Division of Bay Toll Crossings, but if he had, the safety gear would have saved him.

Painter's Job Is In A High Place

BY GEORGE NEVIN

Like the woman of the proverb, Brookner W. Brady Jr.'s work is never done.

Tamalpais Valley resident Brady is one of about 60 structural steel painters who routinely scale cables, scaffolds and girders and dangle hundreds of feet above San Francisco Bay to apply paint to the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

Although he's been a painter for four and one-half years, there are parts of the enormous bridge he's never seen, much less painted.

It takes about 12 years to paint the entire structure, said the 34-year-old Brady, and then the work has to start all over again.

Brady's dark eyeglass frames are speckled with beads of dried paint, although he keeps the lenses clean, and he sports a beard that's just growing out after being shaved off recently.

"I shave my beard about once a year," the brown-haired, blue-eyed painter explained. "It gets so matted with paint I can't do anything else."

Although the casual motorist and even the regular commuter may be unaware of it, the bridge is in the middle of a period of transition.

"Our whole way of doing things is changing," said Brady, largely due to one man, Harry D. Reilich, the engineer in charge of all bridge maintenance.

Under Reilich's direction, the bridge crew is switching to new, more advanced types of paint: treating the bridge as one long span instead of dividing it at Yerba Buena Island and using computerization and mechanization to a greater degree than ever before.

"This used to be a horse and buggy operation," said Brady, "but a lot of the old techniques have been dropped — thank God."

The most important change is in the paint. No more of the old lead and oil base paints will be bought, and when the 3,000 gallons of the stuff now on hand are used up, they will be replaced by pigments that should last at least twice as long.

"There are two basic types of paints," said Brady, "Membrane and cathodic."

The membrane type — such as oil and lead paints — protect steel by covering it. When a pinhole or thin spot develops, as is bound to happen, the steel rusts and must be sandblasted clean and repainted, said Brady, who lives at 388 Pine Hill Road with his wife, Monserrate.

But the cathodic paint is something else again, he continued. The type now being tested on the bridge is composed of zinc particles in an inorganic vehicle. Whenever a pinhole develops, the zinc "sacrifices itself" for the steel and decomposes into zinc sulfate, thus spreading a protective coat over the vulnerable steel.

Tests indicate the so-called zinc system — the zinc paint applied underneath a primer coat and two coats of vinyl aluminum paint — will last at least 20 years, double the life of the old paint.

To the layman, the most spectacular part of Brady's work — and the thing that lends a romantic aura to his occupation — is the climbing and other acrobatics performed at dizzying heights.

"I still get a thrill every time I climb the cable," Brady admitted, "even though I've done it hundreds of times." For more than a year, his principal job has been painting the suspender cables, the clusters of four strands that support the bridge deck, and the average day may find him perched on a two-man painter's basket 200 feet or more above the bridge's westbound traffic deck and 400 feet above the chill waters of the bay.

For a glimpse of what he does on many days, Brady guided this reporter and Independent-Journal photographer Alfred M. Arn to the top of the highest tower.

Safety equipment required by the Division of Bay Toll Crossings, which runs the Bay Bridge and seven others, includes a hard hat, a bright orange vest and a safety belt, rope and clip, called a safety snap.

Although "we've had accidents on the bridge," Brady said he's never taken a spill — a spill that theoretically would be stopped by the rope — and has never seen anyone else do so, either.

Dressed in a motley assortment of work clothing, and wearing a jacket encrusted with globs of red and silver paint, Brady hopped nimbly to the main cable, a monster of some three feet in diameter, where it dips to the road's surface at midspan.

Directing us to do likewise, he fastened his safety snap to one of two small cables — called safety hand lines — that serve as rails for walking the main cable.

Up we went, sliding the safety snap as we walked. At intervals of about 20 feet we had to remove the snap, skip past a support and return the snap to the cable.

It was at such moments that the bridge, trembling slightly in a stiff west wind, seemed to shake the most.

Knuckles white, we continued climbing, the hum of traffic growing fainter as we left the roadway. The steadily expanding view, encompassing the East Bay, Sonoma Mountain, all of San Francisco and the Santa Cruz Mountains — as well as Marin, invited us to look but we were reluctant to pry our attention for the click-slide-click routine.

After a few moments we reached a painting platform hung on the main cable. The wood-and-cable structure seemed much less sturdy than the massive cable we'd been climbing.

After conversing with two painters, who were chipping and painting corroded spots, a laborious task that might cover only 50 feet in one day, we resumed the climb.

We finally reached the top and paused for a few minutes in the tower to take in a panorama few see. Then it was back down again: Click, slide, click, slide.

Although some think of a bridge painter as a person who just applies paint to steel, according to Brady, "Less than half our time is spent actually painting. Rigging the baskets and platforms and preparing the steel surfaces to make ready for the paint is a big part of our job."

Dozens of skills must be mastered before a painter can begin spraying (applying paint with brush and roller was phased out for the most part some two years ago), Brady said.

As a case in point, Brady said he has been on the night shift for the last three weeks, steam-cleaning the inside of the Yerba Buena Tunnel, a job that must be done about once a year.

Brady said the thought that his task is endless — that fog and auto and industrial fumes pit and corrode the paint about as fast as he and the other 59 painters can apply it — doesn't discourage him.

"Someone has to do it," he said, "and it seems I might as well be the one."

ALL IN A DAY'S CLIMB — Brady, who on a typical day may find himself perched almost 300 feet above the bridge's top deck, checks an air hose leading from the tower (behind camera) down to a painter's platform. The hose supplies air pressure for the paint guns and pneumatic tools.

EXPERIMENT — Waiting for traffic to thin out on the bridge so he can start his day's work, Brady listens to an explanation of a television monitoring experiment by Peter Enfiedgian. The one-year pilot program is designed to determine if a permanent bank of TV monitors will help bridge officials prevent traffic snarls due to stalled cars and wrecks.

THE VERY TOP, Brady emerges from a hatch on the highest point of the highest tower of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge. Inspecting the tower for rust spots and painting them is child's play compared to the complicated maneuvers necessary to paint the suspender cables.

Pat Plants A New Camellia

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Pat Nixon, calling California's capital "the most beautiful in the whole wide world," ignored demonstrators shouting obscenities and planted a new blush pink "Pat Nixon Camellia" in State Capitol Park Saturday.

Mrs. Nixon, escorted by Gov. Ronald Reagan and his wife Nancy, opened Sacramento's 18th annual Camellia festival from the Capitol steps as about 50 demonstrators, carrying Viet Cong flags and placards, yelled obscenities.

Police said seven youths were booked on charges of disturbing the peace, battery and resisting arrest.

Reagan and his wife, who celebrated their 20th wedding anniversary Saturday, obviously were upset by the hecklers.

"I can't help but say," Reagan said as he interrupted his prepared remarks, "That I've been a long time believing that with every right there is a responsibility. Wouldn't it be nice sometime to see someone demonstrating for their responsibility."

Davis Addresses NAACP Meeting

OAKLAND (UPI)—Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. told a meeting of the NAACP he's "sick of the NAACP being called Uncle Tom."

Davis told 650 persons attending the Life Membership Committee meeting of the organization Sunday night that violence is futile and stupid.

He said he would rather rely on the NAACP lawyer headed for the Supreme Court than someone "who would go up against the First Army with a bottle and a rage."

Boy's Big Achievement: Makes First Solo Flight

By DICK SMULLEN

Sixteen-year-old Colby Carrizales gets high in a very special way, and does it with his parents' approval. He flies, and on his recent birthday made his first solo flight.

He and his father, James Carrizales, had been planning the flight for a year, since Colby began flying on his 15th birthday. His father was introduced to flying by the Army Air Corps during World War II, liked it and passed the interest on to Colby.

Although he normally takes lessons at Oakland Airport, Carrizales soloed at Livermore Airport. Busy Oakland is a "controlled airfield" with a tower and requires radio communication with all planes entering or leaving its control zone. Because Colby had little experience with radio work and would more than have his hands full with the solo flying alone, Livermore was chosen.

During the 45-minute drive from his home at 26 Glen Drive in Mill Valley to the airport last Friday, Colby said he felt himself getting more and more nervous. His mother, a secretary, said she would have shared that nervousness while at work but thought the light rain falling would cancel the flight.

At the field, Colby made six practice landings with his instructor, who then climbed out of the aircraft and told him to go it alone. In order to do so officially, a student must make three takeoffs and landings.

COLBY CARRIZALES
Soloes at 16

Colby said he remembered being very careful about everything during his first go-round, not forgetting any of the numerous operations involved in takeoff and landing. One surprising aspect of the flight, he recalled, was how quickly the airplane left the ground. More than 150 pounds lighter with the instructor on the ground, Carrizales said it seemed to jump off the runway.

His first impression of solo flying was that it had to be the greatest feeling he knew. He also said he seemed to leave all his fears on the runway. "I was very nervous before takeoff, but then I realized the plane was off the ground and flying, and everything was OK. Only trouble was, then I realized I had to land, and started getting nervous again."

The tension may have helped his concentration because Colby said, it was the best landing in two months of practice.

The second trip he remembers as more relaxed, but he made several small mistakes and did not touch the plane down on the runway where he intended. He also said it was a harder landing than the first.

During his third run, Colby made a larger mistake, almost stalling the craft over the runway. He applied power, prevented the stall, and made a good landing, although the hardest of the three.

Colby had been prepared to solo since the beginning of December, but the Federal Aviation Administration requires solo fliers to be at least 16.

He must now wait another full year before he can take a checkride for his private pilot's license, again due to FAA regulations. Once the young pilot obtains his private license, he hopes to progress through instrument and commercial ratings to an instructor's license.

Second oldest of the five children in the family, Colby is the only son. He said that while his sisters enjoy riding with their father in an airplane, none has expressed a desire to learn how to fly.

A sophomore at Marin Catholic, Colby has been an Independent Journal carrier since 1968. He's putting the money from his Mill Valley route into his flying lessons.

New Telephone Services Seen

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—By 1980, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company predicts it will provide the following new services:

—During conversations, a special tone will allow a person to know if someone else is trying to ring him.

—When one is visiting other homes a call can be transferred there automatically.

—Sleeping children can be monitored by phone.

—Special short two-digit codes for frequently called numbers will simplify dialing."

The company made the predictions in its annual report called "Looking Ahead" in which it forecast a rosy outlook for the next quarter of a century.

Military Panel To Visit Base

Members of the Marin Military Affairs Committee will visit the Strategic Air Command base near Marysville on March 14.

The trip will include a luncheon at the officer's club at Beale Air Force Base and a briefing on the SR-71, a reconnaissance airplane. The group also will view the B-52 heavy bomber and KC-135 jet tanker on alert.

The tour will conclude with an informal dinner at the officer's club at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Senator Attacks Unsafe Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., plans to introduce legislation that would permit the government to restrict the sale of ineffective and unsafe drugs now protected by "grandfather clauses."

Nelson said Sunday that many drug products are worthless, but the burden of removing them from the market falls on the government. His proposal would require drug manufacturers to prove that products exempted from 1938 and 1962 consumer-protection laws are safe and useful.

Compounds developed before 1938 do not have to be proved safe, and those developed before 1962 do not have to be proved effective by their manufacturers, Nelson said.

Teen Birth Pill Legislation Sought

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, today proposed twice-vetoed legislation permitting doctors to prescribe birth control devices for teen-aged girls without parental consent.

Beilenson said Sunday his measure would "help curb the epidemic of teen-age illegitimacy and abortion."

Gov. Ronald Reagan the past two years has vetoed similar measures by Beilenson.

Recycling Boom Subsiding— But Volunteers Still Dogged

The recycling boom of 1970-71 has subsded to a faint clink of bottles and beer cans in most Marin and Southern Sonoma communities.

Volunteers still doggedly man a few recycling centers, mostly on weekends, but the area's only so-called commercial recycling depot went out of business last November.

Survival, Inc., and the Belvedere-Tiburon Committee for the Environment still maintain depots. They have somewhat shifted their long-range emphasis to one-day campaigns to remove litter from specific scenic areas, and to public education.

Two beer distributors in San Rafael — Golden Gate and Anchor — continue to purchase aluminum cans for recycling under the Reynolds Aluminum Co. program. Ecology-minded citizens should check the hours the firms will accept the cans. Neither firm is open on weekends.

Survival, Inc. operates recycling depots for crushed cans and bottles — sorted by color and minus caps and neck rings — at Sir Francis Drake, Redwood and Terra Linda high schools, usually from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

The Belvedere-Tiburon environmental group operates a depot from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays at the Tiburon Sanitary District plant at Mar West Street and Paradise Drive.

Pupils and parents at St. Anselm's School, San Anselmo, operate a depot that accepts bundled newspapers. Another parent-student group, RISE, maintains a depot for neatly tied or bagged newspapers at Redwood High School, but cannot take magazines or any other type of waste.

Marin Ecology Center in Mill Valley sporadically offers pickup service for recyclable materials in West Marin, according to Paul Jacobs of the Center. He reported that Tomales area students apparently are still operating a recycling center at the high school.

The only operating recycling depot in Southern Sonoma is a class project launched by Sonoma State College student Lindsay Browne. The center is open at the college Mondays, Wednesday, Thursdays and Fridays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and all day on Saturdays. Browne accepts cans and bottles but no paper. He said Bay Area plants readily will buy bottles and crushed cans.

Browne's center has no pickup service. He said he's had some difficulties with householders who balk at separating their material properly or crushing cans as requested.

The same plight was cited last year by volunteers at many recycling depots. Apparent lack of success in communicating the requirements led to a number of irate letters to the Independent-Journal, and to many volunteers abandoning the labor of getting the materials into recyclable assortments.

Many householders reported they had difficulty keeping track of depots' operating hours, due to changes and depot closings.

Neil Smith, president of Marin's only commercial recycling firm, said the firm went out of business last Thanksgiving because of public apathy, and the lack of any really suitable way of coping with most of the 700 tons of refuse produced daily in Marin. No economic way exists for recycling most of the material, he said.

Basic Training Signups Set

The Marine Corps Reserve office in San Rafael has announced it is accepting applications from male high school and college students for enrollment in the July basic training class at San Diego.

The program, known as the "six-month program" is designed for young men who wish to complete their high school training and continue on to college.

Men serve five and a half months in the San Diego area and serve their enlistment at home by attending one weekend training period each month at the Santa Venetia armory.

Marin '9s' In Good Day

Marin County baseball teams enjoyed a prosperous day Saturday, winning four games in five tries by such divergent scores as 1-0 and 20-3.

San Marin swept a doubleheader from Galileo in San Francisco, 20-3 and 11-7, in eight innings while Drake defeated host Sonoma, 5-4, and Marin Catholic shaded visiting St. Ignatius of San Francisco, 1-0. The lone loss was sustained by Terra Linda, 8-6 to Berkeley at Albert's Park.

San Marin's Marty Larsen cracked two doubles and drove in five runs in the opener against Galileo, while winning pitcher George Hoberg added a bases-loaded double and Greg Mazeres drove in two runs. Eagle-eyed Dave Ilchert attracted four of the 10 walks the Franciscans issued.

Larsen drove in the go-ahead run with an eighth-inning single in the nightcap, and San Marin added three more as Ilchert, Tom Bowen and Scott Morris drew consecutive bases-loaded walks. Ilchert went four-for-four with four RBIs in the game.

Steve Sherry's line-driven double to right center-field in the sixth inning scored Don Bianchini, who had doubled, to give Marin Catholic its victory. Bianchini started at pitcher and threw three baserunners out at the plate before yielding to reliever Jim Lowe, who picked up the victory. The two combined for a three-hitter.

Drake righthanded reliever John Billings won his own game with a seventh-inning single that capped a four-run rally. Brad Herbert lined a two-run triple and then scored on a squeeze bunt by Jit Singh, who in turn scored on Billings' hit.

Terra Linda loaded the bases with nobody out in the seventh inning, but could manage only one run. For the game, Lee Peterson had two singles and two runs batted in, and Nick Mattos also had two singles.

Mrs. Bailey, Yes; Mat, No

Melinda made it but Mat didn't.

Melinda Bailey of Novato has reached the finals of the San Francisco Women's City Golf championship but veteran Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael lost in the semi-finals of the men's portion.

Palacio, 56, lost to Bruce Robertson, 18, Stanford University freshman, 2 and 1 Saturday at Harding Park. Yesterday John Cranston, 35, of Los Altos, defeated Robertson, 1 up, on the second extra hole — the 38th — to win the S.F. title.

In Mat's semi-final bid, he had a three hole advantage after shooting a one-over-par 73 on the morning round, but tired in the afternoon round to the much younger Robertson, 18 years short of being born when Palacio won the California State Amateur title in 1936. Prior to the match, Robertson received a mystery telephone call advising him that his mother was ill. The call checked out to be a phony one, evidently meant to unnerve him. It didn't work. In the other semi-final match, Cranston defeated Napa's 19-year-old Mark Lye, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Bailey, wife of College of Marin track coach Tony, the caddy of the family, yesterday defeated Judy Ghilarducci, wife of Sacramento policeman Letto, 2 and 1, also at Harding Park. Melinda will be facing Pam Palmieri, 17-year-old senior at Santa Rosa's Ursuline High School, in the 36-hole finals Sunday at Harding. Pam won her semi-final match over Marie Strand, winner of the 1966 City tourney, 2 and 1.

Melinda will be hoping the fifth time will be a charm, as she has advanced to the finals of four S.F. championships in the past and lost all four times. She played under the name of Melinda Magley, before Tony came along.

Redwood Triumphs In Track

Redwood High School's track and field team, with coach Doug Basham back at the helm after a year's absence, won eight of 13 events and established two new meet records Saturday, as the Giants easily won the Marin County Athletic League Relays at the College of Marin in Kentfield.

Redwood set new marks in the two-mile relay, with Ken Bentson, Ned Overend, Mike Sweeney and Rick Norton in the time of 8:20.7, and also set a new ark of 33 feet 6 inches in the pole vault relay with Kip Kermoian, Neil Kreuzberger and Mark Asiano.

The Giants finished with 60 points, outdistancing their nearest competitor, Terra Linda, by nearly a 2-1 margin.

NCAA BAN

Dr. Hayakawa Now A Protestor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Dr. S.I. Hayakawa, the famed semanticist who took on the most vocal of student radicals at San Francisco State and won, now has his verbal guns aimed at the National Collegiate Athletic Associaton.

The object of Hayakawa's ire is the NCAA's decision to bar San Francisco State and Sacramento State, the two best basketball teams in the Far Western Conference, from postseason play.

LETTER

In a letter to Walter Byers, the NCAA Executive Director, Hayakawa said he was particularly upset at the manner in which the NCAA handed down its decision. The collegiate body put down San Francisco State and Sacramento State for using what it called ineligible athletes.

The players in question were reserve guard Ray Harne of the Gators and starting center Lloyd Berens of the Hornets. The NCAA said they violated a rule which requires an athlete to complete his varsity eligibility within five consecutive years. The FWC has no such rule.

'DISTRESSED'

"I am particularly distressed," Hayakawa wrote Byers, "by the fact that your decision was rendered without notice, without even the courtesy of discussion. The NCAA action appears arbitrary, unfair, capricious and carries a total disregard for the real purposes of amateur athletics."

Hayakawa further noted, for Byers' information, that the Far Western Conference probably comes closer to acknowledging what the real purpose of amateur athletics is by banning athletic scholarships.

"Our athletes play for the love of the sport," said Hayakawa, "often at considerable personal sacrifice and inconvenience. I can understand why some ff them look on the NCAA as an enemy of amateur athletics, rather than as its friend and supporter."

EDUCATORS

"Educators and others recognize the need for some students to interrupt college to earn money, travel, mature, serve their country or community — generally to break the lockstep that is demonstrably out of date," Hayakawa said further, adding that he would be looking forward to a reply from Byers and an amplification of the NCAA's view of amateur athletics.

Fore! Look Out For The Birdies

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The mudhens have the drop on the Porter Valley Country Club. The law won't let the club shoot back.

The mudhens, a wildfowl something like a duck, began showing up in swarms a few weeks ago and adopted the club's greens as a temporary home as they migrate north.

"They're destroying the fairways, and they're messing up the greens," moaned one country club worker. "But it wouldn't be polite for me to describe exactly how."

The club, exasperated by the proliferating "additional hazards" its members encountered, obtained permission from federal authorities, as required by law, to interfere with migrating birds.

The intended interference was to be performed by three men with shotguns and a large supply of shells.

But the club also needed permission from Police Chief Ed Davis and the Police Commission to discharge firearms within the city limits.

The chief said no. There are homes within shotgun range and aside from safety factors, shooting the mudhens would be noisy enough "to disturb the peace and tranquility of the neighborhood," he said,

Two-Way Tie In Doral Golf

MIAMI (UPI)—This year's $150,000 Doral Eastern Open golf tournament has been rocked by controversy and plagued by rain. But in today's final round it turned into a competitive masterpiece.

Superstars Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino teed off in the windup locked in a tie for the lead at 10-under-par 206 for three rounds and just one stroke back are oldtimers Sam Snead and Paul Harney.

The final round had been set for Sunday, but heavy rains just after noon forced postponement until today. It was the second rain delay in two days.

DOWNPOUR

Saturday, a downpour halfway through the third round washed out all scores. In a hotly-disputed move, the PGA eliminated 30 golfers who scored 147 or worse after two rounds and scheduled 36 holes for the remaining 52 golfers Sunday. But the rains came again after the 18 holes of the third round, pushing the finish into Monday.

His eight-under-par 64 tied the course record Nicklaus himself set in 1969, but he said he played better three years ago because in 1969 the greens were slick and he had to contend with gusty winds.

If Nicklaus wins the tournament today he will pass Arnold Palmer for the lead on the all-time money winning list. The $30,000 first prize would put him $6,000 head of Palmer with winnings of $1,477,200.86 over his 10-year career.

"I feel fortunate to be tied for the lead fter a man shoots a 64," Trevino said of Nicklaus' steady round. Trevino shot a 68 Sunday, although rain interrupted his round three times and it took him more than six hours to play 18 holes—over two hours more than normal.

Another steady round was turned in by 59-year-old Snead, who shot a 68.

A HELP

The rainout was sure to help the legenday pro, giving his legs a chance to rest for the final round today. He was paired with Nicklaus in a natural for the galleries.

Harney, who fired a 68 Sunday, played with Trevino—a contrast between the softspoken New Englander and the flamboyant Texan.

Bitterness on the part of some pros who were among the 30 eliminated after Saturday's rainout has overshadowed the flap earlier in the week over the unreasonably tough redesigned 10th hole.

FIVE SCORES

But the rains helped there, too, as only five scores over par were made on the par-five hole Sunday. The hole was overhauled last summer but then settled in the rear, which meant numerous shots skip over the green into the pond beyond.

Only two meet records were broken this year, contrasting sharply with last year's meet, where six relay marks were bettered.

Terra Linda did not finish worse than second in any event; the Trojans split the ten events.

Torre Holding Out; Powell Capitulates

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Boog Powell and Joe Torre, a pair of slugging MVPs, found themselves dickering in the never-never land of baseball economics Sunday and reacted in different ways.

Powell, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1970, took the $90,000 from the Baltimore Orioles. Torre, the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1971, said "no thanks" to the St. Louis Cardinals and is continuing to negotiate.

Powell, who was bidding to join baseball's $100,000-salary club, accepted the same amount he made last season after his 1970 MVP season. His signing left Merv Rettemund, who is trying for $50,000 against an offer of $42,000, as the only unsigned Oriole.

Torre, who turned in a .36324-137 performance in batting average, homers and runs batted in last season, was offered a two-year contract for $130,000 in 1972 and $150,000 in 1973 but turned it down. His basic position is that he wants a three-year contract.

"I wasn't particularly interested in two years," said Torre. "But when I asked about three years they weren't interested."

Torre joined the Cardinals in 1969 as a catcher earning $60,000 a year.

In other camps: Outfielder Willie Montanez, the NL's runnerup in rookie of the year rating in 1971, signed with the Philadelphia Phillies for an estimated $27,500...Steve Brye two-run single in the fourth inning enabled the Minnesota Twins to beat the Detroit Tigers 2-1. Jim Perry also starred for the Twins, allowing one hit in three innings...Frank Robinson delivered a sacrifice fly in the Los Angeles Dodgers' intrasquad game.

Paul Popovich and Frank Fernandez homered in the Chicago Cubs' intra-squad game. Nonroster catcher Pete Varey's homer off Mike Pazik's 3-2 pitch leading off the sixth inning game the Chicago White Sox a 1-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

The Boston Red Sox scored one unearned run each off Dick Bosman, Paul Lindbland and Casey Cox to beat the Texas Rangers, 3-1, while Ray Culp checked the Rangers on two hits...Rusty Staub worked out with the Montreal Expos for the first time after signing a one-year contract for less than six figures. He had been seeking $100,000 a year for three years...Garry Jestadt and Jerry Morales each drove in two runs as the San Diego Padres scored an 11-2 triumph over the Mexico City Red Devils in Mexico City.

Racer Killed

PARKER, Ariz. (UPI) —Bob Ellis, 35, of Parker, Ariz., was killed Sunday at the start of the nine-hour Parker Enduro boat race on the Colorado River when his craft went out of control and sliced through a dock.

Al Attles Smiling After Warrior Win

OAKLAND (UPI)—Coach Al Attles is all smiles after his Golden State Warriors dramatic victory over Seattle this weekend in the National Basketball Association Pacific Division race.

The Warriors, who for weeks have tried to shake the pesky Sonics in the battle for second in the division and a berth in the playoffs, scored a decisive 114-96 victory over the Northwest club Saturday night, and Attles couldn't say enough about his men.

"These fellows responded to the importance of this game as much or more than any team to any game since I've been associated with the organization," enthused the coach.

The Warriors were on top offensively and defensively throughout, and the win put them back in second place ahead of Seattle.

Guard Jeff Mullins led the Warrior attack with 25 points and Fritz Williams, hitting consistently from the corner, added 23.

The backboard combination of Nate Thurmond and Clyde Lee cut down the Sonics offensive punch. Lee pulled down 26 rebounds and center Thumrond had 25.

"You have to credit our entire club for the whole night's efforts and especially the defense for making it easier for the boardmen," Attles said. "But to have one man drag down 26 and another 25 on the same night is really something."

The Warriors will try to protect their slim advantage over Seattle Tuesday night when they host the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Meanwhile, Warriors' owner Franklin Mieuli began dreaming happily about next year, anticipating the return of star forward Rick Barry. Barry, the former Oakland Oak, Virginia Squire, is presently linked with the New York Nets, his third American Basketball Association team. But Mieuli reportedly signed Barry in 1969 after the former Miami University star played out his option with New York.

Cincinnati Bengals Sign Brian Foster

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cincinnati Bengals Friday announced the signing of 10th round draft choice Brian Foster, a 5-11, 175-pound defensive back from Colorado.

Foster, 22, was named to the all-big eight conference team last season. Head coach Paul Brown said he will be tried at cornerback.

Rosie Casals Upset

ROCHESTER, Mich. (UPI) — Kerry Melville of Australia captured the championship of the women's $15,000 K-Mart Invitational tennis tournament Sunday with a 6-3, 6-7, 7-6 upset of top-seeded Rosie Casals.

Giants Set Camp Move To Phoenix

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants will move to Phoenix this week as their home base for the exhibition season.

The Giants closed out the Casa Grande portion of spring training Sunday with an intrasquad game in which the John McNamara team posted a 5-4 victory over the Joey Amalfitanos.

Willie Mays got his first hit of the season, and first baseman Willie McCovey cracked his third homer at the camp. It went over the right field fence at the 450-foot mark.

Charlie Fox was pleased at the pitching of John Morris, a 30-year-old lefthander from Lewes, Del. who is working out with the Giants as a non-roster player. Morris hurled three innings and displayed an impressive sinker ball.

Fox was also pleased with Chris Speier's progress in trying to become a switch hitter. Speier, normally a right-handed batter, lined a triple from the left side of the plate.

San Francisco, Santa Clara Vie

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The University of San Francisco and Santa Clara, two of the most bitter basketball rivals on the West Coast, meet in the climactic game of the season Wednesday night and at stake is a berth in the NCAA West Regional Playoffs.

The Dons whipped Nevada of Las Vegas, 90-83, Saturday night to run their West Coast Athletic Conference record to 12-1, and while they were maintaining their spot atop the league standings, the Broncos were whipping Nevada of Reno, 86-54. That gave Santa Clara an 11-2 league mark.

SAN FRANCISCO

Now, they meet in San Francisco two nights from now with the Dons 18-7 overall and the Broncos 17-8. In the only other meeting between the two schools this season, Santa Clara scored a 73-68 decision, but the Broncos later lost to Loyola and Seattle.

Should USF win Wednesday's game, then it's all over with the Dons going on the play in the NCAA Regional. If the Broncos win, then there will be a playoff on Saturday night at the Oakland Coliseum Arena to determine the league champion.

UCLA

Meanwhile, nationally top-ranked UCLA rolls serenely along its way. The Bruins wrapped up still another Pacific 8 Conference title during the weekend by whipping California, 85-71, and Stanford, 102-73. That gave them a 13-0 league record, 25-0 overall and extended their winning streak to 40 games going back to last season.

The Bruins have been promised a couple of days off by coach John Wooden because they showed signs of being tired in the victories over Cal and Stanford.

BREATHER

"They could use a breather," said Wooden. "They have worked hard all season long and I think a rest of a couple of days now—completely away from the game—is the tonic they need with the playoffs coming up."

The first round of the NCAA Regional is on tap Saturday at Pocatello, Idaho, with Rik Sky champ Weber State paired against independent Hawaii and BYU, the Western Athletic Conference champ, meeting Long Beach State, winner of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association title.

The two winners then advance to the final at Provo, Utah, March 16-18 against UCLA and the WCAC champ.

SHAME

It's a shame the Pac 8 has a rule against teams outside of the champion playing in postseason tournaments because the Washington State Huskies would be naturals for the NIT in New York.

The Huskies, led by Steve Hawes, with 28 points, and Louis Nelson, with 23, raced to their fifth straight victory, 70-69 over Oregon State Saturday night. That victory also put them in a tie for second in the Pac 8 with USC at 9-4 and gave them an overall mark of 19-6, probably better and more meaningful than half the teams who will be invited to the NIT.

Bill Walton, UCLA's super soph center, was the big man once again during the weekend. On Friday night heled the Bruins with 24 points and on Saturday night he dominated both boards and fed his teammates on the fast break.

SOPHOMORE

"He's in a class all by himself," moaned Stanford coach Howie Dallmar, "and just think, he's only a sophomore."

Washington State defeated Oregon, 77-69, and California upended USC, 84-74, in the remaining Pac 8 games Saturday while in the WCAC, Seattle crushed Pepperdine, 106-88, and in the PCAA, which wound up its season, Los Angeles State defeated UC Santa Barbara, 72-70, Pacific beat San Jose State, 81-73, and San Diego State whipped Fresno State, 90-80.

And so, it's on to the playoffs.

NBA ROUNDUP

Hot Cincinnati Duo Astonishes Celtics

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

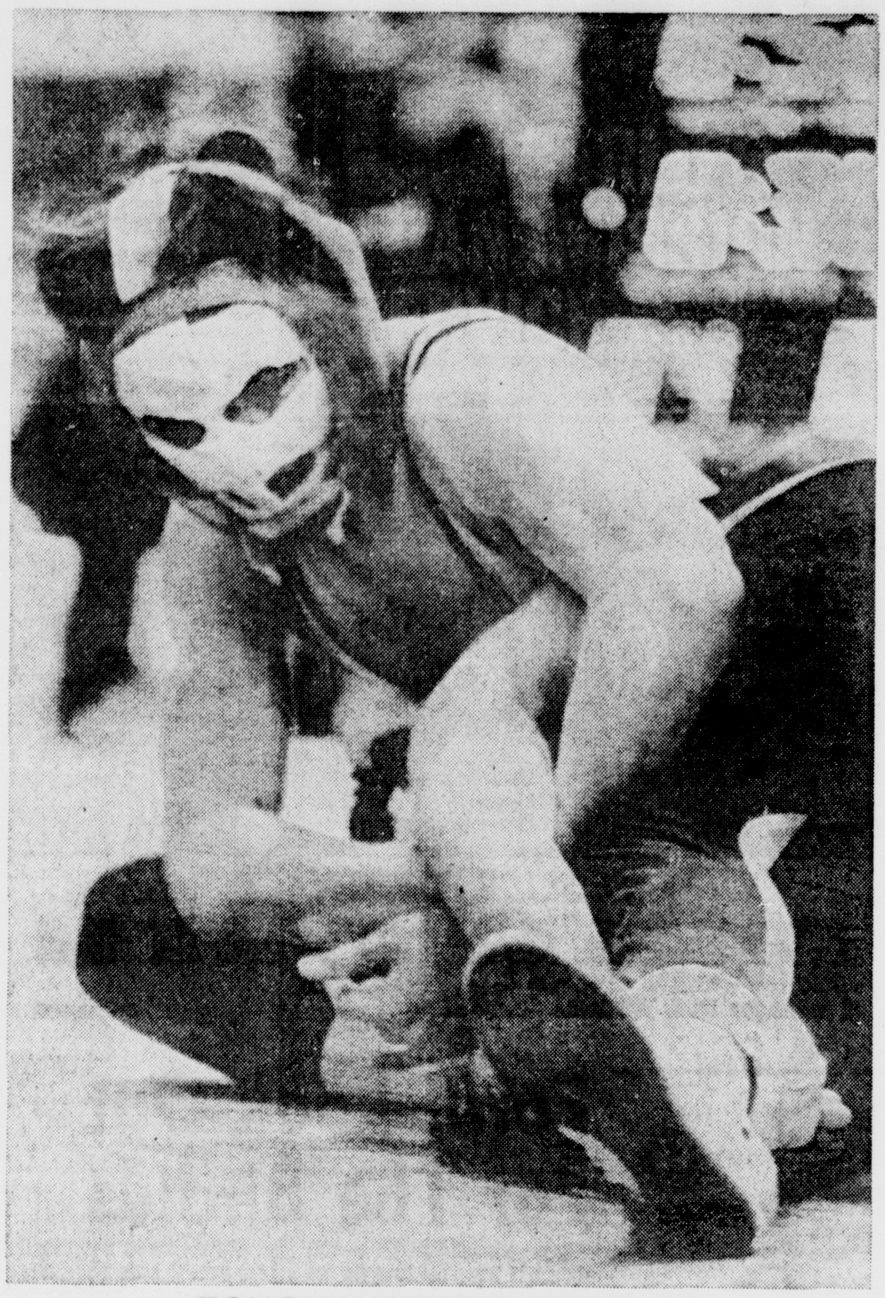

The Boston Celtics are still shaking their heads.

The Celtics watched almost in disbelief Sunday as Nate Archibald and Tom Van Arsdale put on an astounding shooting display to lead the Cincinnati Royals to a 125-114 victory over Boston.

Archibald, one of the smallest players in the National Basketball Association, and Van Arsdale scored 39 points each, including 17 apiece during a fourth-quarter barrage that buried Boston. Boston led 87-78 after three periods when Archibald and Van Arsdale went to work.

The Royals hit 78 per cent of their shots in the final period and outscored the Celtics 47-27 to snap Boston's five-game winning streak. Nate Williams added 18 points for Cincinnati while John Havlicek led the Celtics with 29 and Jo Jo White had 28.

In other NBA action, Phoenix routed Buffalo 131-103, Philadelphia edged New York 100-98, Chicago crushed Houston 128-97, Baltimore downed Los Angeles 108-94 and Seattle nipped Atlanta 112-110.

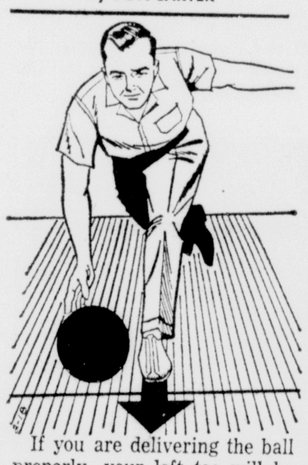

TOUGH WRESTLER TO FACE

Sporting a sinister-looking mask to protect a nose injury, Penn State University wrestler Sam McCollum gained the upper hand on Bill Jacoutet of Middlesex College, New Jersey, Saturday in grappling at Worthington, Minn. McCollum subsequently pinned his foe.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

If you are delivering the ball properly, your left toe will be aimed at the pins and your shoulders will be parallel to the foul line. Check the position of your foot after you've released the ball. If it is angled sharply to the right, it means you are using the foot for a brake — that you probably are rushing to the line.

Record Set

ULM, Germany (UPI) — Rudolf Mang of West Germany set a world record of 507 pounds in the press Sunday at an invitational weight lifting tourney.

Kentucky Throttles Lowly Pittsburgh

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It didn't take long for the Kentucky Colonels to show the difference between a first-place team and a last-place club.

The Colonels, first in the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division, moved out to a 39-21 lead after one period, stretched it to 76-44 at the half and coasted to a 134-124 victory Sunday over the last-place Pittsburgh Condors.

Dan Issel scored 39 points and had 20 rebounds to lead the Kentucky attack and Walt Simon added 21 points and Artis Gilmore 20. David Lattin had 32 points for the Condors, who rallied against Kentucky subs in the final period, and Bob Verga added 27.

In other ABA action, Denver beat Memphis 137-129, Indiana downed Dallas 110-99 and New York topped Carolina 114-96.

Ralph Simpson scored 33 points and Dave Robisch added 22 to lead Denver past the Pros. The Rockets hit 65 per cent of their shots in the first half as they roared out to an 85-59 lead. Johnny Neumann led Memphis with 31.

Roger Brown's 27 points carried Indiana past the Chaps. George McGinniss and Mel Daniels added 17 each for the Pacers while Don Freeman and Steve Jones led the Dallas attack with 20 each.

Rick Barry scored 23 points and Bill Melchionni added 21 as the Nets downed Carolina. Gene Littles led the Cougars with 23.

Hawkins Wins

NEW YORK (UPI) —Connie Hawkins of the Phoenix Suns defeated Fred Foster of the Philadelphia 76ers, 20-16, in a first-round match of the National Basketball Association's One-on-One championship.

Men's Skiing Title Still Up For Grabs

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI)—Only four more races remain in the World Cup series and while Annamarie Proell of Austria has the women's title locked up, it's far from over in the men's competition.

The 18-year-old Miss Proell, silver medalist in the Winter Olympics at Sapporo, Japan, clinched the women's Cup title last Wednesday by winning the giant slalom. That gave her an unbeatable 258 points and the title for the second straight year.

Henri Duvillard of France took the men's giant slalom Thursday to move past countryman and fellow Olympian Jean Noel Augert by three points in the men's Cup standings and then missed a chance to widen his lead when the slalom was called off Saturday at Heavenly Valley's East Bowl because of poor conditions.

So now, the world cup skiers move on to Gardena, Italy, for a downhill and giant slalom on March 15 and 16, a slalom at Campiglio, Italy on March 17 and a giant slalom at Praloup, France, on March 19.

Most observers feel the title probably won't be decided until that final race at Praloup because Duvillard has 117 points, Auguer has 114, Gustavo Thoeni, the defending champ from Italy, has 107 and Bernard Russi of Switzerland has 100.

Each race victory is worth 25 points but second place is awarded 20 points, third 15 and fourth 11.

Oscar Brandle, an FIS technical delegate from Austria, was the man who called off Saturday's men's slalom 75 minutes after it was scheduled to start.

Temperatures climbed into the 40s during the morning hours, turning the snow soft. The course already had been weakened earlier in the week by two days of rain. One competitor walked on the course shortly before Saturday's race was called off and when he went in up to his hips, it became obvious there would be no further racing at Heavenly Valley.

Serge Lang, a World Cup organizer, said the cancellation will not be made up because it's too late in the schedule. They have already run off 15 competitions in the series, counting the one here.

While Miss Proell had little trouble taking the giant slalom here, she fell during the running of the slalom after hooking a gate. Florence Steurer of France went on to take both heats and pick up the 25 points. The race in the women's competition is strictly for the higher placings below first.

Marilyn Cochran of Rutland, Vt., saved the Americans' pride here by winning the Governor's Cup. That award goes to the skier with the best combined limes in the slalom and giant slalom. Marilyn's sister Barbara, who won the Olympic gold medal ahead of Miss Proell, was sixth in the slalom and holds 10th place in the Cup standings.

World University Games Criticized

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) —The torch flickering at one end of the Lake Placid Olympic Stadium was extinguished Sunday to mark the close of the 1972 World University Winter Games (FISU) while discussion heated over the scheduling of the biennial games.

The ceremony marked the end of the nine-day Games dominated by the Soviet Union which captured 30 medals —14 gold, 11 silver and five bronze.

Ernest J. Matthews, who represented the International Skiing Union at the games, criticized FISU for holding its winter Games in the same year as the Olympics and other major international competition.

"They are killing themselves and so far they have refused to cooperate with us," Matthews said.

"No athlete of top class standing is going to compete in this event when he has a chance for a more important title," he said.

The games, in which 23 nations competed, was bypassed by all but a handful of the athletes who competed at the Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. FISU officials had originally claimed that at least half of the Olympic competitors would participate in the games at this Adirondack mountain resort community.

Matthews said he has talked with Trimo Nabiolo of Italy, president of the sports organization, and urged him to reschedule the Games for years that would not find the event competing with the Olympics and major world cup competitions.

"I couldn't get anywhere with the man. He didn't seem interested," Matthews said.

"This problem will be discussed at our next general assembly," Nabiolo said.

He said there had been many discussions on the subject but declined to elaborate.

Sonoma '9s' Set Openers

With basketball season just completed, baseball action in Southern Sonoma County opens in full swing this week with the four local high schools playing in non-league games.

Tomorrow, 3:30 p.m., Petaluma High School hosts San Leandro High School at McNear Park in Petaluma, and Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park plays Marin Catholic High School at Sonoma State College. On Friday, 3:30 p.m., St. Vincent visits Middletown High School, and Tomales hosts Cloverdale High School.

Petaluma, coached by Roy Lattimore, finished 12-12 overall last year and 6-6 in North Bay League play, good for fourth place. Lattimore's Trojans will depend on a strong pitching staff and good defense to try and beat out perennial league power Napa High School and Vallejo High School. Petaluma's veteran mound corps is led by Sam Solis, a senior who was 5-4 last year, and senior Dan Cader, 2-3 in 1971. Lattimore hopes to fill his rotation with junior Rick Mossi, up from the junior varsity, and Korean transfer Bob Shaller, also a junior.

Rancho Cotate hopes to retain its Sonoma County League title, 17-7 overall and 10-2 in the league.

Coach Jim Dougherty will build his team around returning all-leaguers Bob Murray and Lou Goring. Murray, who hit over .400 last year, plays the outfield, and Goring, who hit .300, is the catcher. The Cougars pitching ace is right-hander Dave Christense with lefties Jerry Wachoaiak and Dave Woodle filling out the staff. The teams to beat in the SCL are Sonoma High School ahd Cardinal Newman High School of Santa Rosa.

St. Vincent High School, coached by Ed Major, took second last year in the North Central League II race with a 10-2 log. The Mustangs' strength is the pitching of Jim Leoni, a senior and Jim McCaffrey, a junior. If his leg heals fully, Herm Benedetti should give St. Vincent three good hurlers. Much of the hitting will be provided by Bob Vyenielo who batted .300 as an all-league performer last year. Calistoga High School is the team to beat in the NCL II. Tomales will be fielding a young team this year with only four seniors. Jim Clahan's Braves, who finished third last year in the NCL II, have strong hitting in junior John Petroni, who made all-league last year hitting .380, senior Jim Joyce, also an all-leaguer with a .340 average in 1971, Mike McCoy and sophomore transfer Dale Davis. Clahan's top pitchers will be Joyce, who won four league games last year, junior John Ball and senior Tommy Francheski.

McLain Bids 'Adieu' To Rangers

By MILTON RICHMAN

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—And so, as the sun sinks slowly in the West, we bid farewell once again to that always enchanting, delightfully balmy independent little island off by itself —Denny McLain.

Saying goodbye here didn't come particularly hard for him when the Texas Rangers dealt him to the Oakland A's for a pair of minor league pitchers over the weekend.

Before dpearting, McLain wanted to get one last thing off his chest. It had to do with ted Williams, the manager he was leaving behind.

"We got along great," said McLain. "Away from the ballpark."

The reason he and Williams got along so well away from the ballpark is simple. Once they left it they went their won individual ways. They had nothing to do with each other.

Working hours were another story. They wore the same uniform and they were paid by the same employer but they never traveled the same road or were on the same wave length. McLain put it this way a day before the trade.

"He doesn't say nothing to me and I don't say nothing to him."

Williams wasn't thrilled over the McLain deal from the time it was made in October, 1970, when the Texas Rangers were still the Washington Senators.

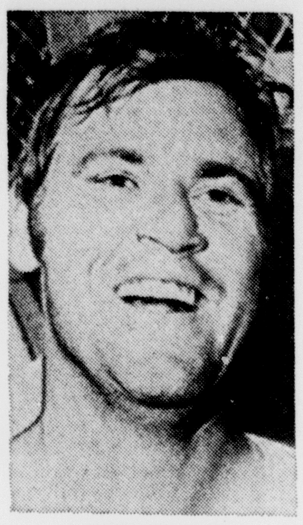

He didn't like the idea of giving up his third baseman and shortstop, Aurelio Rodriguez and Eddie Brinkman, to Detroit but he couldn't do much about the swap because it was engineered by Bob Short, the man who pays him. About all he could do was refer to it always as "Short's deal."

McLain had a few problems with Detroit despite the fact he was hotter there at one point than the Jackson Five. The high point for him was 1968 when he won 31 ball games, pitched the Tigers to a pennant and wound up with both the MVP and CY Young awards.

The low point was when everybody discovered Denny McLain had feet of clay.

He was set down three months by Bowie Kuhn, the commissioner, for a bookmaking episode, then came subsequent suspensions for carrying a gun and dousing two sports writers with water.

"I'm not concerned with what went before," Williams said when McLain reported to him a year ago. "He's a good pitcher. He's young and he has ability. I know how that is. I went through a lot of the same things he's going through myself. We're not going to have any trouble."

DENNY McLAIN
Oakland pitcher

Williams was wrong. He and McLain got into a disagreement over how much rest the 27-yearold right-hander should have between starts. Williams felt McLain should work every fifth day; McLain felt he had to work every fourth day to be at his best. Williams had statistics to show that wasn't so; McLain told Williams "Fiddle statistics." he said they didn't prove anything.

"I've had the two greatest pitching instructors in the world, Charlie Dressen and Johnny Sain," McLain went around saying.

"Williams doesn't know anywhere near about pitching what they did."

McLain insists he can't pitch every fifth day and points to his sorry 10-22 record with the Senators last year to support his claim.

"I lose my rhytm when I don't pitch every fourth day," he says. "I get too far away from the game. When Williams did what he did to me last year I developed a lousy attitude. I had no desire. I lost it all."

McLain could have some trouble getting it back with the A's. Working regularly every fourth day with them isn't going to be that easy either because they've got a few pitchers themselves—the still unsigned Vida Blue, a 24-game winner; Catfish Hunter, a 21-game winner; Chuck Dobson, a 15-game winner, and Ken Holtzman, who won only nine with the Cubs last year but was a 17-game winner with them twice and is young enough to be the A's again. If Blue Moon Odom should also come back, McLain may wind up with more rest than he had last year.

But that's how it goes sometimes. You know, out of the fryin pan. At least McLain will have a better hitting club behind him with the A's.

Before catching a jet for his new training quarters in Arizona, McLain had some ice words to say about Bob Short, who tried to help him with his financial difficulties.

Denny McLain, with a 10-22 year behind him, isn't quite so brassy any more — nor is he what you would call completely subdued. He's somewhere in the middle. Regarding some of those things he has done, he says: "I wouldn't have done anything differently. But there are a few things I wouldn't have done."

done."

Raiders' Lamonica In Surprise Visit

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (UPI)—Oakland Raider quarterback Daryle Lamonica paid a surprise call on the Raider rookies at the club's training camp in Santa Rosa over the weekend. Lamonica threw the football for the first time since undergoing surgery three weeks ago for a damaged little finger on his right hand.

The rookies went through drills Sunday and coach John Madden singled out former USC offensive tackle John Vella. "He's a fine player, not just a prospect," said Madden.

All-Tourney Team

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI)—Forwards Bruce Green of Sacramento State and Rich Nelson of Chico State, and center Ron McMillan of University of California Davis were unanimous picks by the coaches for the all-Far Western Conference basketball squad. The selections, released Sunday, included Garry Bradford, of San Francisco State forward, the only player to repeat from last year's honor squad. The five-man first team was completed by Vance De Vost, a guard from San Francisco State.

Chabot Wrests Title

SAN BRUNO, Calif. (UPI)—Chabot has joined Diablo Valley as the only schools north of Fresno to win the California Junior College Association state wrestling tournament. The Gladiators won the 15th annual event Sunday, totaling 52 points to 48 for El Camino. In third place was De Anza, followed by San Jose City College and defending champion Cerritos.

Woody Faces Clark

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — James J. Woody of New York has replaced Ernie Terrell as the opponent for Henry Clark in a 10-round heavyweight fight March 21 at civic auditorium. Clark is the California heavyweight champion. Terrell reportedly is weak from a virus which caused postponement of the original March 14 date set for his bout with Clark.

CONSOLATION TITLE GAME

Tomales Tops St. Vincent

After dropping the opening game to Concordia High School of Oakland, Tomales High School recovered to win the St. Vincent Invitational Basketball Tournament consolation title by defeating St. Vincent Saturday night, 84-75.

St. Vincent held only one lead in the game at 2-0 on Herm Benedetti's lay-in. Before the Mustangs could score another basket, Russ Sartori and Bill Zimmerman hit two buckets each and Bruce Pickering !ut in a 20-footer to give the Braves a 10-3 lead. After Bob Vyenielo connected on a three-point play for St. Vincent, Tomales ran off ten straight points to take a 20-6 lead. Those ten points turned out to be the pivotal point as both teams played even for the remainder of the contest.

Tomales' Bob Kehoe, the tourney's Most Valuable Player award winner, and teammate Vyenielo broke the St. Vincent meet's 63-year-old scoring record of 66 points. Kehoe tallied 78 points, 10 more than Vyetielo. Both players were named to the All-Tournament team.

Australian Compares Students

By C. P. McCARTHY

The Americanization of Dawn may not be much of a success, but in a couple of ways it is complete.

Dawn Bennett is an 18-year-old Australian spending a year in San Rafael in connection with the American Field Service program.

Her Australian friends might not recognize the San Rafael High School student in bulky pullover sweater and jeans and a knapsack on her back as the same Dawn Bennett who attended Griffith (Australia) High School in school uniform with her books in a brief case.

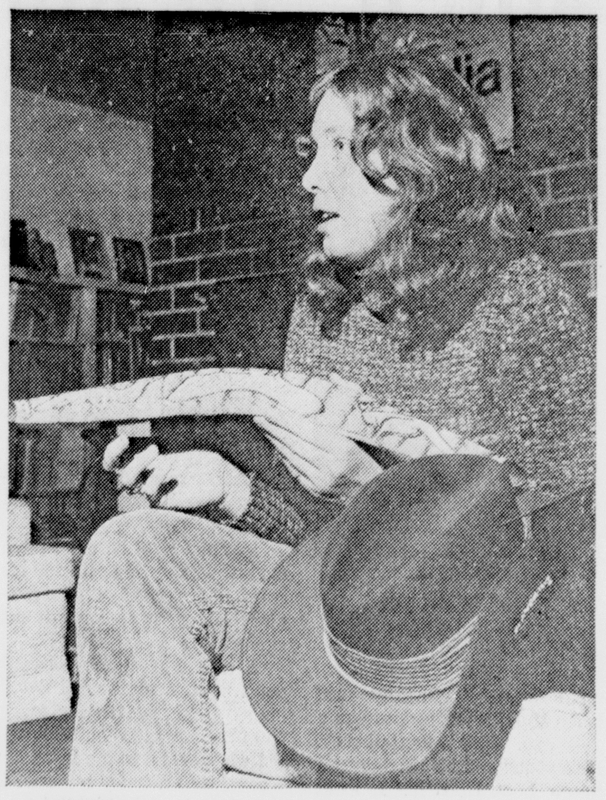

Actually, they probably would recognize her immediately. The flaming, curly red hair is a dead giveaway.

An enthusiastic, bubbling fast-talker, Miss Bennett said in an interview the other day that while she is enjoying her stay in the United States, she wouldn't want to live here permanently.

During her 11-month stay, she is living with the Edsel Yarling family at 12 Windsor Avenue, San Rafael. The Yarlings are addressed as "Mon and Dad," with "mom an Americanized version of the "mum" she calls her mother at home.

Her hometown of Griffith, in the state of New South Wales, she described as a "large country town in a rural area." It has a population of about 10,000, with another 10,000 persons living in the surrounding area.

Miss Bennett completed her high school education in Australia last year. She'll get no academic credit for this year at San Rafael High, "but that's not important compared to what I'm getting out of it," she said, adding that was primarily "learning a lot about myself and other people."

BOOMERANG — With her bush hat on her knee, Dawn Bennett explains the art of the boomerang. "You always have to know the direction of the wind," was one tip the Australian exchange student passed on. She is attending San Rafael High School this year in connection with the American Field Service program.

And it is "the people," she said she likes most about her visit.

The thing she has missed the most here is driving. American Field Service rules forbid exchange students to drive, and that is a real sacrifice for Miss Bennett who drives both auto and motorbike at home.

Her room at the Yarling residence is decorated with two posters, one of Australia, the other of Peter Fonda as the easy riding cyclist.

American young people, she said, are far more aware of "problem situations" than their Australian counterparts. In Griffith, she said, there is no pollution, no drug problem and —although Australia did have troops fighting in the Vietnam War, no real awareness of the war.

"You know these things are there," she said, "but you're not really aware of them."

Although American students may be more aware and active in these matters, Miss Bennett said she found them less responsible than Australian students in connection with studies.

School is more difficult in Australia, she said, and there is less cutting of classes and more pride in schools.

"Kids here are apathetic toward school," she said.

Another difference, she said in perhaps a lighter vein, was that "kids here get stoned on drugs. At home, they get drunk"

Miss Bennett is among 111 Australian students in the United States now with the American Field Service program, which provides a year of study abroad for high school students from around the world.

A San Rafael High School senior, Jan O'Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. O'Neill of 20 Alderwood Way, is attending school in Helsinki, Finland, with the program.

Main Picnic Area Of Park Closed

The main picnic area at Samuel P. Taylor State Park will be closed until March 23 to permit erosion control and restoration work.

The state Department of Parks and Recreation said the Madrone picnic area would remain open for use. Parks Director William Penn Mott Jr. said workmen will be placing wood ships around the base of Redwood trees to protect and rebuild the soil. Split rail fences also will be built along the creek for safety.

Name On Agenda

The San Anselmo Planning Commission tonight will consider changing the name of Sonoma Avenue to Sunnyhills Drive between Sir Frances Drake Boulevard and the present Sunnyhills Drive. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock in City Hall.

Organ Recital Set At Church

Rev. Steven D. Pratt will give an organ recital Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregation Church, 8 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

The program by Rev. Pratt, director of music at the church, will include works by J. S. Bach, Johann Brahms and Helmut Walcha. The church's new Rodgers 110 organ will be dedicated at the beginning of the recital.

$1 Million Oil Firm Extortion Plot A Failure

VALLEJO, Calif. (UPI)—A plot to extort $1 million from Union Oil Co. by setting off two small explosions at a refinery and then threatening to blow up the plant has been traced to a 43-year-old man.

FBI agents arrested Jesse Victor Jackson in a public phone booth Saturday as he talked to an agent posing as a Union Oil executive.

Union Oil officials said they received two typewrittec notes threatening to blow up the firm's refinery at Rodeo, on the eastern shore of San Francisco Bay, unless they delivered $1 million in cash to the writer.

FBI agents said the second letter described two spots on the refinery's network of pipelines where small explosive charges had been set off. Refinery officials checked and verified the small blasts.

A third letter lowered the demand from $1 million to $60,000 and directed company officials to await a telephone call at a Vallejo drive-in restaurant. The note told them to answer the phone using the name "John Smith."

An FBI agent posed as "John Smith" and took the phone call. A man's voice directed him to go to a second drive-in. Agents traced a call to the second restaurant and arrested Jackson at a public phone booth.

Marin City Redevelopment High On Supervisors' Agenda

Marin City redevelopment again will be considered by the Marin County Board of Supervisors, which meets tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. at the Marin Civic Center.

The long-stalled redevelopment will be before supervisors as they consider an agreement with the redevelopment agency to "stand behind" the county's commitment to build certain public facilities such as the fre and police substation, now under construction.

Such an agreement is required before the federal government will consider extending the period the redevelopment agency has to repay its multi-million dollar federal loan — already extended several times.

Last summer, the board refused to consider the agreement since it proposed that the county construct a second access road to Marin City from Tamalpais Valley.

No mention of the road is made in the new agreement, according to county officials who reviewed the document.

In related matters, the board will consider a report on various ways of reconstituting the redevelopment agency — criticized by some Marin City residents for not representing the community.

Supervisors requested the report to study ways of reorganizing the agency board so it has greater Marin City representation. (The seven-member board currently has three representatives from Marin City.)

According to County Administrator John F. Barrows, the law only provides for the board to be appointed by supervisors, or for the supervisors to become the redevelopment agency board.

Under the second choice the supervisors could appoint an advisory committee made up of Marin City residents.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors' agenda also includes:

ANGELA — Authorization for the auditor-controller to submit a $186,444 bill to the state to cover a portion of the county's cost incurred in the Angela Davis-Ruchell Magee trial and security.
